Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Taxing Problem

Q. My husband's employer doesn't itemize the pay-check deductions each week. The deductions are made, but it isn't shown which ones go where. Isn't an employer required by law to itemize the deductions each week? Mrs. R. V., Long B.

A. No, according to a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service. Tax laws of both the federal and state governments require only that the employer provide his employee and the government with an end-of-the-year itemized deduction statement. He noted that the IRS agent's weekly pay-checks are not itemized. The practice of weekly itemization is up to the employer, he said.

War Rations

Q. I was born after World War II, but have heard that certain kinds of food were rationed. Who administered the rationing program and how did it work? B. D., Long Beach.

A. "If you don't need it," read the stern motto on the back of ration stamp books, "DON'T BUY IT." Periodic rationing of meat, butter, eggs and a few other foods began in 1942 and continued through 1945, according to a spokesman for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Administered by the now-defunct Office of Price Administration, the rationing program established price ceilings for merchants and designated certain times of the year when ration stamps would be needed. During

Action Line

"stamp weeks," shoppers would obtain booklets of blue ration stamps at their local War Price and Rationing Board which they would use along with money in buying rationed foods. The stamps were free, and became void when a given rationing period ended. Then a new book — which included a physical description and occupational identification of the holder — would be issued when another rationing period began. Gasoline also was rationed, with motorists required to post a sticker in their car window showing the grade of gas to which they were entitled, he said. Stamps also were used in gas purchases.

Buyer Beware

Q. Is there a state law requiring homeowners to have their property inspected for termites before they can sell it? I recently bought a home and soon after discovered termites. Is the seller obligated to have the house fumigated? D.M., Compton.

A. There is no state law requiring a termite inspection before a house can be sold, according to a spokesman for the California Department of Real Estate. "Although not required by law, termite inspections often are part of sales contracts," the spokesman added. If the previous owner of your home did not agree in the contract to have the property inspected for termites, he is not obligated to have the house fumigated.

Poly Pals

Q. A few months ago, I saw an announcement in the newspaper that the Poly High School class of 1960 is planning a reunion. I would like to find out when the reunion will be held, but I don't know who to contact. I called the school, but the person who answered the phone was unable to help me. Can ACTION LINE help? M. J., Long Beach.

A. Call the school again and ask for the activities director. He has a list of people who are planning reunions for various classes. Graduates of other Long Beach high schools also can call the activities director at their alma mater for class reunion information.

Some Like It Hot

Q. Is it safe to use a hot water bottle with an electric blanket on the bed? K. M., Long Beach.

A. Most electric blankets are entirely waterproof, according to a spokesman for the automatic blanket plant of Fieldcrest Mills in Smithfield, N. C., so you are

Action Line

In no danger should your hot water bottle leak or burst. Nearly all manufacturers subject their electric blankets to the Underwriter's Laboratories tests, which include immersing the blanket in water and subjecting it to high voltage, the spokesman said. However, since the blanket's thermostat is in the wires, the effect of the hot spot created by the hot water bottle probably will be to shut your blanket off.

Stamped Out

Q. We have a stamp machine in our liquor store, but the company that supplied us with the little card-board stamp folders has gone out of business. Can ACTION LINE tell us where we can buy these folders? T. P., Long Beach.

A. The folders are available for $6.50 per case of 10,000 from Acme Vending Machine Co., 1606 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles.

866 L.B. AREA JOBS

Where Defense Cutbacks Will Hit

By HERR SHANNON
Staff Writer

Defense Department cutbacks detailed Friday will close two facilities and eliminate a total of 866 civilian and military jobs in the Long Beach area.

Long Beach Naval Shipyard and the Seal Beach Weapons Station will be hardest hit with a loss of 700 civilian positions, while the closure of Los Alamitos Naval Air Station and the Compton Naval and Marine Corps Training Center will cost another 166 jobs.

The Pentagon released a list of economy moves at 341 military bases costing nearly 100,000 jobs shortly after the Department of Labor announced that the national unemployment rate had jumped from 3.9 per cent in January to 4.2 per cent in February — the highest rate of increase in more than four years.

Under the orders issued officially Friday, operations at Long Beach Naval Shipyard will be reduced by July 1971 with 400 civilian jobs to be eliminated by reduction in force and another 100 by normal attrition.

The Los Alamitos Naval Air Station will be inactivated and excess portions of the installation will be disposed of, with the elimination of 107 military and 57 civilian positions by July 1971. Reserve training activities will be transferred to Navy stations at North Island, Point Mugu, Imperial Beach and Miramar.

Civilian employment at the Seal Beach Naval Weapons Station will be reduced by 200 by October of this year, and functions of the Compton Navy Reserve Training Center will be transferred to Long Beach before the Compton facility is closed next July. Two military positions will be eliminated in the transfer.

In the Los Angeles area, 126 civilian positions will be cut at the Los Angeles Air Force Station in El Segundo by July 1971. Three military positions will be added in the change.

Operations of the Los Angeles Air Force Station

Annex No. 1 will be reduced by one military and 77 civilian positions, and 56 civilian jobs will be eliminated at the Defense Supply Contract Administration Services regional agency.

The economy cutbacks were estimated to save about $914 million a year and will affect 47 states and Puerto Rico, the Pentagon said.

Spokesmen said the economies were necessary because of a reduction in the defense budget from $78.6 billion to $71.8 billion in the last two years.

Officials estimated that 70 to 75 per cent of the civilians who will lose their jobs will be blue collar workers. The Labor Department in its report said this group was already among the hardest hit in the new rise in unemployment.

California will lose 15,144 military and civilian jobs in all, and $111 million in payroll, by far the largest cut of any state. Texas, the second largest loser, drops 7,418 jobs and a $62 million payroll.

Nixon in Crossfire on Laos

Critics Not Stilled; Appeal to Russia, England Praised

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's defense of the U.S. role in Laos failed Friday to still Senate critics but there was some applause for his effort to enlist Soviet and British aid in stabilizing the country.

At about the time Nixon was releasing his statement in Florida, a senior Republican senator was urging immediate withdrawal of all American civilian and military personnel "engaged in air strikes or any other combat activity" in what he called a civil war.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky drafted his speech prior to release of the 3,000-word presidential report but he told newsmen "It doesn't change my view" that the United States should disengage swiftly.

COOPER ADDED Nixon was factual and truthful but "I don't know if it will help much."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Nixon didn't disclose much that was new and "it's the actions we're interested in."

"I don't think it goes all the way. It doesn't undertake to tell everything," he added.

Another persistent critic of U.S. involvement, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said similarly, "there are a number of things that are glossed over."

McGovern said specifically: "We have several hundred ground personnel in Laos cooperating with the Laotian army" in direct violation of the Geneva Accords on the neutrality of Laos. He added:

"Our military planners and our national security people have come to the conclusion that they have

Guatemala Kidnap of U.S. Envoy

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — A Communist guerrilla organization Friday kidnapped the labor attaché of the U.S. embassy, Sean Michael Holly, and later announced he would be executed unless the Guatemalan government released four political prisoners within 48 hours.

The organization, known as the Armed Revolutionary Force, raised its ransom demand from one to four prisoners but extended the deadline from 24 to 48 hours in a statement circulated in the capital Friday night. In its first announcement of the abduction, made by telephone call to a radio station, the FAR demanded the release of one of its own members from prison within 24 hours.

THE GOVERNMENT made no immediate answer to the FAR demand, nor did it acknowledge that it actually had the four men whose release the guerrillas demanded in custody.

Holly was kidnaped in a downtown street at 2:30 p.m. (12:30 p.m. PST) by two carloads of men who blocked his car at an intersection. The FAR deadline for the release of the four prisoners would be at the same time Sunday.

The FAR member whose release the organization first demanded was Jose Aguirre Monzon, who acted as the guerrillas' intermediary last week in the kidnaping of Guatemalan

Fire Kills 7 Tots; False Alarm Bars Rescue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven children were killed Friday night when fire swept a three-story brick apartment house while firemen were answering a false alarm turned in 12 blocks away.

Fire Chief John O'Hagen said, "some of the children may have been saved if that false alarm hadn't been sounded."

HE SAID the alarm delayed firemen's arrival at the actual blaze by about 10 minutes.

One young mother threw two children out of the window of the burning building, then jumped herself.

All three were taken to St. Mary's Hospital where officials said the children escaped with only minor injuries but the mother suffered multiple fractures.

Six of the dead children were found on the third floor of the building and one on the second floor.

FIVE OF the victims were children of Cora Pickney, 22. They were Victoria, 5, Pauline, 4, Ivory, a boy 3, Debbie, 2, and Patricia, seven months.

The other two children killed in the blaze were 4-year-old Monica Burse and her sister, Vernika, 3.

Shouting Match in Court

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Shouting "you can kill me, but you can't give me an attorney," accused murderer Charles Manson Friday was ruled incapable of representing himself and an attorney was appointed to handle his defense.

The wild court session which grew wilder as Superior Court Judge William Keene and the long-haired hippie leader tried to shout each other, ended with the arrest of three of Manson's "family" members for contempt of court when they joined in the shouting match.

Manson, who entered the Los Angeles courtroom smiling, was taken from the session visibly upset and shaking.

Judge Keene opened the hearing on Manson's request for several things — including bail — by asking the bearded cult leader to read from the 17-page legal motion, asking if he had, indeed, read it at all.

"Certainly," Manson replied. "These are all basically my ideas—but not my words."

The motion, among other things, asked that the district attorney be "incarcerated" the same as Manson "to let him look through my eyes" and that he (Manson) be allowed to travel to "anyplace I deem fit in preparation of my own defense."

JUDGE KEENE told Manson he had read the

U.S. Forces Kill 21 Infiltrators

SAIGON — U.S. forces battled two hours Friday with Communist units moving along an infiltration trail into South Vietnam from Cambodia, killing at least 21 infiltrators before the unit scattered, the U.S. command reported. The action, which included aerial support from jets and helicopters, was the major battle in a day of scattered clashes around Saigon. Units of the 1st Air Cavalry Division hit the Communist force on the infiltration route near Katum, northwest of Saigon. One American was killed and 19 others were wounded in the fighting. In the northern quarter one Marine was killed and five others wounded in a Communist ambush.

Arab Guerrilla Stronghold Hit

TEL AVIV — An Israeli Army unit crossed into Lebanon Friday night to attack an Arab guerrilla stronghold in retaliation for commando raids into Israel. A spokesman in Tel Aviv said one Arab guerrilla was killed, two suspected guerrillas were captured and seven buildings, two of them Lebanese army outposts, were destroyed in the raid. The Israeli force returned without casualties. The guerrilla stronghold was one mile inside Lebanon opposite the Israeli settlement of Shetula in western Galilee.

Claim Israeli Jet Downed

CAIRO — An Egyptian military spokesman was quoted by Cairo Radio Friday as saying an Israeli jet was shot down and another suffered a "fatal hit" during a "big dogfight" over Egyptian Mediterranean territory. He claimed four Israeli jets penetrated Qantara in the northern sector of the Suez Canal. "The Israelis inflicted no loss on us."

Swiss Order Jet Tests

ZURICH — Swiss officials have ordered depressurizing chamber tests for all Middle East-bound air mail parcels after a probe of last month's Swissair jetliner crash indicated it was caused by an altimeter-triggered bomb. Sources said any explosive device linked to an altimeter would automatically blow up in the chamber, normally used in pilot training. The inquiry into the crash which claimed 47 lives established that thick smoke filled the passenger part of the jet after the explosion started a fire.

Swiss Alps Crash Claims 11

SAMEDAN — A Bavaria Airlines jet flying a group of vacationers from Munich to a holiday in the Swiss Alps crashed beside a ski slope one mile short of the runway at Samedan, near St. Moritz, Friday, killing all 11 persons aboard. It was the second fatal air crash in Switzerland in two weeks. The dead included Max Schwabe, 40, the head of the airline, his wife and four daughters. One of the jet's two engines caught fire and the plane crashed one mile short of its destination of Samedan.

French Probe Loss of Submarine

TOULON — French navy officials said Friday scratches have been found on the bottom of a Tunisian freighter, opening the possibility it may have collided with the French submarine Eurydice in a disaster that killed all 57 men aboard. The vessel, Tabarka, was ordered into drydock by the French investigators seeking to find out what happened to the Eurydice when it disappeared in the Mediterranean last Wednesday. Rear Adm. Pierre Devie said it was safe to say the Tabarka had "run into a metal object" but that it would be "going pretty far" to conclude that it definitely hit the Eurydice.

Nixon Signs HEW 'Inflationary' Bill

KEY BISCAINE — President Nixon ended a prolonged test of wills with the Democratic 91st Congress Friday and signed a compromise appropriations bill that he vetoed in January as 'inflationary.' The final $19-billion measure, provides money for the departments of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare, the Office of Economic Opportunity and 11 other federal agencies for the current fiscal year, which already is more than eight months gone. The original measure totaled $19.7 billion, and its veto on Jan. 26 was upheld by Congress. On its second try, Congress cut the figure to $19 billion.

Unemployment Up in February

WASHINGTON — More workers were unemployed in February than at any time in more than four years, clearly reflecting Americans' sharply reduced demands for new cars, television sets and appliances. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said Friday that 4.2 per cent of the nation's labor force was out of work last month, the highest percentage since October of 1965. In addition, the bureau said the average factory work week dipped to the lowest level since January of 1962 and overtime earnings fell again in February.

Rights Amendment Rejected

WASHINGTON — The Senate rejected Friday an amendment that might have enabled most of the Southern states now covered by the 1965 Voting Rights Act to get out from under it. The amendment, defeated 58 to 19, was offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., in an effort to ease the impact of the law on southern states. It would have changed the automatic coverage formula so that the law would not apply to states or counties in which 50 per cent or more of the voting age population was registered in 1964 even if less than 50 per cent voted in the presidential election that year.

Oil Spill Fouls Alaska Coast

ANCHORAGE — Tankers dumping dirty ballast apparently are responsible for the oil that has fouled about 1,000 miles of Alaska coastline and killed at least 10,000 birds, a federal official said Friday. The oil, which authorities say has washed up on the twisting, isolated shoreline of southwestern Alaska, first was noticed last month by fishermen who found it clinging to buoys.

U.S. Bases to Use Food Stamps

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department has reversed itself and will permit military commissaries to accept food stamps from any of the 12,589 service families who receive welfare assistance, Rep. Leonard Farbstein, D-N.Y., said. He said the Pentagon had acted on his request that it retract a 1965 policy prohibiting the 315 commissaries from handling food stamps, by which the government helps pay food costs for the poor. Commissaries generally offer food and other goods at prices lower than on the commercial market.

18 Indicted For Plane Hijacking

WASHINGTON — Eighteen persons, including eight men arrested in the U.S. after their release by Cuba, were indicted in 1969 on charges of air piracy for prosecution in the federal courts, the Air Transport Association reported Friday. ATA said five of seven alleged hijackers actually brought to trial during the year were found guilty and sentenced to prison terms of as much as 20 years. In the other two cases, the defendants were declared mentally incompetent and were remanded to mental institutions. Of 41 attempted hijacking in 1969 involving U.S. aircraft, 33 were successful and all but two were flown to Cuba. The other two planes were detoured to Italy and Syria.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Perry Mason Sidekick Paul Drake Dies

Combined News Services

William Hopper, long-time sidekick of the famed television attorney "Perry Mason" and the son of the late columnist Hedda Hopper, died Friday. He was 55. Hopper, who appeared for more than eight seasons on the popular television series as detective Paul Drake, had been hospitalized in Palm Springs Desert Hospital for about a week prior to his death, a spokesman said. However he declined to release any further information.

The spokesman said Hopper's body was transferred to Rose Hills Mortuary in Whittier where funeral arrangements were pending. He was born in New York City, Jan. 26, 1915, the son of theatrical parents. His father, De Wolf Hopper, was an actor and his mother Hedda Hopper, began as an actress and became a famed Hollywood columnist before her death in 1966. After several attempts at summer stock in New England following high school graduation and a short stint on Broadway, Hopper came under a stock movie contract for several studios. He appeared in such films — prior to World War II — as "Knute Rockne — All American," "High Sierra," "Santa Fe Trail" and "The Maltese Falcon."

He enlisted in the Navy when the war broke out. After a brief volunteer stint with the OSS, Hopper returned to the Navy to become a member of the newly formed underwater demolition teams for Pacific operations. He was awarded the bronze star and several other medals before being discharged from the Navy in 1945.

For the next eight years he sold cars in Hollywood before returning to pictures in "The High and the Mighty." His credits also included "Rebel Without a Cause" and "The Bad Seed."

MAN WOMAN

A Paterson, N.J. judge has ruled that a Clifton man who underwent surgery last year to change his sex is now a woman "physically and legally." The judge made the ruling in the case of Armando Diamante, 45, who underwent an operation called "sex reassignment surgery" in New York June 18, 1969. He also granted Diamante permission to assume the first name of "Lisa." In ruling, the judge considered an affidavit from a doctor which stated that Diamante "could no longer function as a male or be considered a male but could function as a female."

FREE OF PAIN

Lyndon B. Johnson was free of pain near his heart Friday. Doctors were so encouraged by his progress they let him walk around his hospital room. The former president's erratic heart's also smoothed out and he was taken off a constant electrocardiograph monitor. "President Johnson had a very good night, sleeping comfortably throughout the night," said Lt. Col. Robert L. North, chief heart specialist at Brooke General Hospital, San Antonio, Tex.

The day before had been Johnson's worst since he entered the hospital five days ago suffering angina pectoris, chest pains caused by reduced flow of blood to the heart. The former president, who is 61, has a form of hardening of the arteries. Johnson, who suffered a heart attack 15 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, received "sacks and sacks of mail" Friday. Asked if Johnson can return to normal activity when he leaves the hospital, North said: "We anticipate that he can and will if his progress is as expected."

ROYAL VISIT

Queen Juliana of Holland flew to Montreal Friday night and disappeared in a rented car for a 10-day visit with her daughter, Princess Christina. The princess is a student at the Ecole St. Vincent D'Indy, a music conservatory in Montreal. Royal Canadian Mounted Police kept newsmen away from the queen and princess and would not let anyone follow them.

NIXON THREAT

A California man alleged to have threatened the life of President Nixon in the New York City passport office last August was held in Clinton County jail Friday after being deported from Canada. Robert J. Hendry, 39, was arrested by customs officials at the Champlain crossing point. Hendry had entered the State Department's passport office at Rockefeller Center, ripped up a passport application and announced that he would kill the President.

TWIN DIES

One of the Siamese twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Duane Durbin and separated by surgery Thursday, died Friday at Cardinal Glennon Hospital, St. Louis. The twin, Penny Renee, died of general deterioration which began at the time of the twins' birth Monday, said Dr. Eugene Lewis chief of pediatric surgery at the hospital. The other twin girl, Patricia Kay, was reported in satisfactory condition.

PAT NUGENT

QUITS LBJ RADIO JOB

PAT LUCI

Patrick Nugent, the former Luci Johnson's husband, has left his job in the Johnson family's broadcasting company in Austin and now is a San Antonio businessman. It was learned Friday that Nugent is president of Athletic Repair and Manufacturing Co., Inc. He drives 55 miles from his Austin home to San Antonio every morning and 55 miles back every night. Details of his new career were not immediately available and Nugent declined comment. After his return from an Air Force assignment in Vietnam as an enlisted man in April, 1969, Nugent went to work for KTBC-TV and radio, the Johnson-owned broadcasting stations in Austin. He and Luci were married in September, 1966, and have two children.

MRS. NIXON

NEAR IN VIET

Mrs. Richard M. Nixon came home Friday expressing enthusiasm for the "great generation" of college student volunteers she visited, and saying she has a feeling that "peace is just around the corner" in Vietnam. She said both she and her husband, President Nixon, have respect and admiration for the young people "and what they're doing now can really change this country." The First Lady made her comments at a coffee session with reporters in Springfield, Mo., her last stop.

When the question of Vietnam came up, Mrs. Nixon said she didn't want to get into it because she's no expert. But she noted that "there are so many things going now" and there's a feeling of confidence and hope among the leaders. She said she wasn't surprised to find so many longhaired youths involved in volunteer work, "but the country will be surprised. And that's why I wanted to go out and tell this story." Many of the students she met from Michigan State University, the universities of Cincinnati, Kentucky and Colorado, wore peace buttons in their lapels and Mrs. Nixon said she wasn't surprised about that either.

UCSB Group Criticizes Demand for Resignations

Associated Press

A University of California at Santa Barbara committee criticized a city councilman Friday for demanding the resignation of top campus officials because of last week's student violence.

William A. Sayre had demanded the immediate resignations of Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle and Vice Chancellors A. Russell Buchanan and Ray Varley.

The statement of the advisory committee to the Academic Senate's chairman stated the university's position on the charges, spokesmen said.

IN LIGHT of the statement, Cheadle and his aides said they wouldn't reply to Sayre's charges.

The committee categorically rejected Sayre's demand, labeling it "a simplistic solution for an unrealistic situation that stems from a series of misconceptions on the part of the councilman."

Sayre said the chancellors failed to exercise proper authority during the student violence.

"Mr. Sayre's suggestion," said the committee's report, "is on a par with our requesting his resignation and those of his hard-working colleagues on the council for their failure to resolve the problems of oil on Santa Barbara's beaches."

DEFENDING Cheadle's decision to let Chicago Seven defense attorney William Kunstler speak on the campus, the committee noted the University of Illinois had withheld such permission and was struck by student rioting just the same.

The committee said

Sayre showed a "lamentable lack of knowledge about the university" in charging Cheadle failed to immediately suspend faculty members and students who "participated in the rioting."

The committee said Isla Vista is an adjoining community outside the university's jurisdiction.

The committee called on Sayre "in our time of mutual concern with this most recent catastrophe to join with us in a move toward the reasonable resolution of the problems that surround us on all sides in Santa Barbara, Goleta and the university community."

Meanwhile there were these other developments on the campus Friday:

—Varley admitted he had warned the Bank of America of trouble less than 36 hours before the bank was burned to the ground and real estate offices were vandalized.

—A student nonviolent protest group obtained 6,819 signatures condemning violence by students and police and calling for nonviolent protest.

—Dist. Atty. David Minier announced that a team of 10 volunteer attorneys would serve as special prosecutors in the trials of persons connected with the Isla Vista riots.

Varley emphatically denied having inside information on the burning of the bank and vandalizing of real estate offices.

"It's a thing any joker could have done," Varley said, "just by sitting down, and figuring on a piece of paper what has happened when this guy (Kunstler) appeared and what the targets have been."

5-Year-Old Boy Dies in Swing Set

A five-year-old Long Beach boy was killed Friday when he tried to perform a circus trick on his backyard swing set.

Kevin Andrew Lovett, 6813 Los Santos Drive, was pronounced dead on arrival at Community Hospital at 12:05 p.m., shortly after his mother discovered him hanging by his neck from the swing set.

THE VICTIM'S brother, four-year-old Christopher, told his mother, Mrs. Colleen Lovett, that the child had attempted to place his feet in one hanging ring and his head in another and then change positions, police said.

The trick was one Kevin had seen at the circus a year ago, Mrs. Lovett told police.

Officers David Buchanan and Charles Brown arrived at the home to find the child lying unconscious on a bed, and attempted to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until an ambulance arrived.

DOCTORS SAID the child appeared to have died of either a broken neck or strangulation.

Funeral services for the child will be arranged by Dilday's Mortuary, according to a family spokesman, following completion of a coroner's investigation into the accident.

Bill to Limit Property Taxes Will Be Detailed

From Our L.A. Bureau

A new legislative proposal "limiting" property taxes will be detailed Monday at a press conference by County Assessor Philip E. Watson.

Watson, principal author of the defeated 1968 statewide initiative measure, Prop. 9, which also would have limited property taxes, said Friday his new program is the result of further research in the field.

Commons Member's Espionage Trial Set

LONDON (U) — William James Owen, 69-year-old Laborite member of the House of Commons, was committed for trial Friday on charges of passing secrets of possible use to an enemy.

Defense attorney Jeffrey Thomas said Owen "completely denies the offense." Magistrate Sir Frank Milton refused Owen bail pending trial, starting April 7.

THE ASSESSOR, who said he is convinced the property tax load is "far too heavy" said his new plan is "much broader in scope . . . and vests in the voters the power to set limits on property taxes."

Highlights of the program, Watson says, includes transfer of education and welfare expenses from the counties to the state, to be financed from revenues other than property taxes. It also includes a ceiling on property tax rates levied by counties, cities and special districts; and control of bonding limits by vote of the taxpayers involved. He also proposes ceilings on sales and income taxes, and reserves for the electorate the right to grant special tax exemptions.

Watson said his new legislative program is "trying to cover the points brought out by the opposition to Proposition 9."

Marshmallow Hail on Fullerton Campus

By BOB SANDERS Staff Writer

Dr. William B. Langsdorf, president of embattled California State College at Fullerton, spoke to more than 2,000 persons in the campus quad Friday, but was showered with marshmallows instead of applause at the start of his speech.

Langsdorf's appearance before the crowd of faculty members and students climaxed a 3½-hour rally, which began at noon.

Still holding to what students call a "hardline" attitude toward campus disorder, Langsdorf fended most of the questions with dexterity. But about 200 students, directly in front of the speaker's platform, greeted most of his answers with boos, catcalls and obscenities.

However, several students spoke out over the public address system in favor of the president's action in calling in police to quell campus disturbances twice in the past week. They also were hooted at by the militants.

THE RALLY began peaceably at noon. It was interrupted about 2 p.m. when Nora Tucker, a girl student, finished her speech to the crowd with the announcement she was going to the president's office "to deliver my demands."

About 200 persons in the crowd followed her to Langsdorf's office and waited a half hour in the corridor before his locked door until he agreed to speak with them and answer questions from the students.

Heading the demands of Miss Tucker and her fellow militants is the dropping of college disciplinary charges against two students. Bruce Church and David MacKowiak, who are accused of disrupting a speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan on the campus Feb. 9.

Church and MacKowiak are under criminal indictment for disrupting the educational process of a state college. The charge was made under a new section of the California Penal Code. Their trial is scheduled March 25 in Fullerton Municipal Court.

THE COLLEGE hearings — which set off a full-scale riot Wednesday in which 19 persons were arrested—have been postponed indefinitely "until due process can be achieved."

In Friday's confrontation, Langsdorf was pelted with marshmallows by the militants when he stepped to the microphone in front of the Library Building. A dozen or so of the confectians hit him—another two dozen fell to the ground beside him. The president, quiet and impassive, waited out the marshmallow marksmen until they ran out of ammunition.

Most of the questions — many of them from Associate Professor Stuart Silvers who was one of the 19 arrested Wednesday — dealt with dropping the charges against "Bruce and Dave." Others dealt with what the questioners referred to as the unfairness of the college disciplinary procedures, which they call "unconstitutional."

Langsdorf reiterated his stand that the college was governed by the law of the land and the regulations of the state college system and he intended to uphold them in operating the college.

Prof. Hans Leder, who has conducted the rallies during the week as part of his "class" on the quad, asked Langsdorf what he would advise the students to do. He replied that they should abide by the law and "cool it."

Shortly after 3:30 p.m. Prof. Leder asked the crowd what it wanted to "do about the situation" and, receiving an indefinite response, announced that "the class" was over for the day but would reconvene at 11 a.m. Monday.

St. Basil Attorney Calls Judge a Racist; Cited

United Press International

The attorney for 11 persons charged with disrupting a midnight mass at St. Basil's Roman Catholic church last Christmas was cited for contempt of court Friday after protesting a judge's refusal to postpone proceedings.

Attorney Alex Z. Acosta shouted "racist!" at Judge Irwin J. Nebron as he left the Los Angeles Municipal Court bench after handing down the citation.

Acosta had sought a postponement to try a traffic case previously scheduled in Northern California. Nebron warned the attorney he would be cited for contempt unless he appeared in court at 8:30 a.m. Monday for the St. Basil's trial.

The judge then changed his mind, however, issued the contempt citation and left the courtroom as Acosta and many of the observers sympathetic to the defense called him a racist.

Earlier in the day, Nebron had ordered the courtroom cleared of spectators who were shouting "oink, oink" during the proceedings. After their ejection, the courtroom door was scrawled with the words, "witnesses and spectators excluded." Judge Hoffman presiding, in reference to the recent "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial.

In the St. Basil's trial, the 11 defendants are charged with one count each of disrupting a religious service at the new Wilshire Boulevard church.

The demonstration last Christmas was sponsored by Católicos Por la Raza, a Mexican-American organization hoping to make the Roman Catholic church more sensitive to the needs of minority poor.

36 Held in Rally at School

A noisy rally by 200 students at Roosevelt High School in East Los Angeles on the anniversary of a walkout two years ago ended Friday with the arrests of 31 juveniles and five adults.

The rally, which attracted about 6 per cent of the school's 3,400 students, was in support of demands for a student voice in education policy.

Students milled around in the school corridors after the midmorning break and then went outside for the rally. Four police divisions were placed on alert and several officers went onto the campus as observers.

A number of students leaped over a fence and began throwing rocks which shattered some windows of campus buildings. A door also reportedly was torn from its hinges.

Huge Firm Must Sell Holdings

LTV Conglomerate
Will Lose Steel Company or Airline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department settled an antitrust suit against Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc. Friday by requiring the huge conglomerate to sell off either Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. or Braniff Airways and the Okonite Co.

In announcing the agreement, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said it calls for "the most substantial corporate divestiture of any antitrust decree in recent years."

The proposed judgment is to be filed in Pittsburgh federal court early next week, Mitchell said, and court approval will be sought after the usual 30-day waiting period.

The action would terminate a complaint brought by the government against LTV, the nation's 25th largest industrial corporation, last April 14. It was the first antitrust suit ever brought against a conglomerate, a diversified industrial giant.

THE SETTLEMENT allows LTV the alternative of divesting itself of J&L, the takeover that triggered the antitrust action, or to sell, in the alternative, Braniff and Okonite, a wire-making firm.

In Dallas, a spokesman for Braniff said "We have no comment to make" on the judgment.

It would have three years to complete the divestiture.

The settlement also would bar LTV from any major acquisitions within the next ten years without prior approval from either the government or the courts, and would prohibit LTV, J&L, and their subsidiaries from engaging in reciprocity.

Including J&L, LTV has assets of $2.7 billion. Its far-flung financial empire sells almost $2.8 billion annually.

J&L, with assets of about $1.1 billion, would be one of the largest firms that the government has ever forced another company to give up. Braniff has assets of about $371 million and Okonite about $164 million.

THE PROPOSED judgment stipulated that if divestiture is not complete within three years, LTV-owned stock in J&L would have to be transferred to a court-appointed trustee for disposal.

Until divestiture is accomplished, the decree said, J&L, Braniff and Okonite must be maintained as viable business entities.

The agreement without a trial was considered a major victory for Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, who brought the complaint as a pilot effort to halt the merger trend led by huge conglomerates.

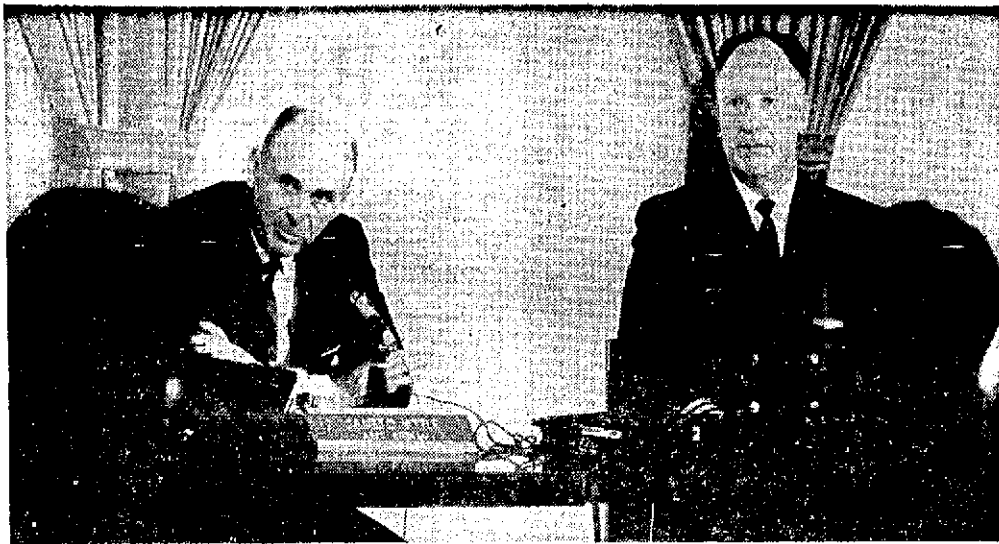

McLaren later brought suit against two other conglomerates, Northwest Industries Inc. and International Telephone & Telegraph Co. Northwest abandoned its challenged acquisition, but three cases are still pending against ITT.

Credit Squeeze

Hits Lumber Trade

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Because of severe credit restrictions in 1970, national lumber production is expected to drop 5 per cent from 1969, a wood products executive said Friday.

Wendell B. Barnes, executive vice president of Western Wood Products Association, estimated that his group alone can expect a 4 per cent drop from last year's 18.2 billion board feet. He also sees a 7 per cent drop in housing starts, which was 1.497 million in 1969.

ASSISTANT NAVY SECRETARY JAMES D. HITTLE (L) ANNOUNCES NEW HOUSING PLANS

Navy Families to Live on Los Alamitos Base

By LOU CANNON and BUCK LANIER
Staff Writers

Los Alamitos Naval Air Station will begin its phase out on April 1, but facilities are going to remain for support of activities for the Naval Base Los Angeles-Long Beach or other federal agencies.

"First crack goes to federal agencies for acquisition," Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, said Friday.

"There will not be any Cherokee Strip land grab," he said.

This was learned prior to the announcement that Los Alamitos will be the site of a new 50-unit temporary lodging facility for Navy personnel, enabling transferred personnel and their families to save large sums of money while awaiting permanent housing.

"THIS OUGHT to give an idea who is going to be utilizing the land at Los Alamitos," a Department of Defense spokesman said.

James D. Hittle, assistant secretary of the Navy for manpower and reserve affairs, made the housing disclosure at a Los Alamitos press conference.

It was also revealed that 213 civil service jobs will be lost, victim of the current Department of Defense economy move.

These will be handled by retirements, transfers and relocations.

Rumors had been flying the past 12 days, since the I, P, T's initial disclosure that the station would be closed, on how communities surrounding the base would carve up the property.

PHASING out the base, however, does not mean automatic return of the valuable land to Orange County.

Rep. Hosmer said he would support use of the air station property for park or recreational purposes but would "strongly oppose" any attempt to convert it into a commercial airport.

The phase out is due for completion by June 30, 1971, as part of a nationwide military base cut-back intended to save $946 million.

If at that time the Defense Department determines that Los Alamitos is not needed for any future military purposes it will be turned over to the General Services Administration.

"At that point the property is up for grabs by other federal departments and agencies, and in land-short Southern California we must reckon with the possibility that part, or all of it will be claimed for other federal requirements," Hosmer said.

IF THE AIR station or portions of it are unclaimed, the Federal Property Act provides that it may be designated surplus property and sold with state and local agencies given the first priority.

The GSA determines the "highest and best use" of the property and may allow up to a 50 per cent discount for park and recreational purposes.

Up to 100 per cent discount could be allowed if the property were to be used for an airport or "public health" use.

This proposal raises the possibility that the land could be converted into a commercial airport, the action that Hosmer said he would oppose.

Long Beach officials have taken an increasingly militant stand against new air travel into the city and have opposed additional routes into the municipal airport in a case now pending before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

MOVING of the air facilities (11 types of planes and 32,000 flight hours) will result in a saving of $6 million annually, Capt. Grant Boice, station commander said.

He said, too, that the squadrons, now moving to Point Mugu, North Island, Miramar and Imperial Beach will "derive greater benefit from being at their operational sites."

Hittle sidestepped questions on the facilities' use, making his main point on the importance of the soon-to-be-built housing.

Foreign Minister Alberto Fuentes Mohr.

The government exchanged another imprisoned FAR member for the foreign minister early last Sunday only a few hours before the country's presidential elections, then later arrested Aguirre Monzon.

As in the exchange last week, FAR demanded that the four prisoners whose freedom it now is demanding be turned over to the Mexican embassy and guaranteed safe passage to Mexico.

In addition to Aguirre Monzon, the other three were identified as Jose A. Sierra, Leonel del Cid and Vidalina Antonieta Monzon.

THE KIDNAPING of Holly was the third terrorist act FAR has directed against U.S. diplomats in Guatemala within the past 26 months. Three officials, including Ambassador John Gordon Mein, were shot and killed in the other two in 1968.

The FAR identifies itself as a Castro-Communist organization dedicated to bringing down the Guatemalan government.

AEC Sets Off 2 Atom Test Blasts

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — Two nuclear devices were detonated within 25 minutes of each other Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission at the Nevada test site.

The AEC said the underground tests, code-named Cyathus and Arabis, were not related even though they were conducted at nearly the same time.

Both were of low yield, less than 20 kilotons, and the AEC said no radiation leaked into the atmosphere from the shafts in the desert floor.

They were the 8th and 9th nuclear tests this year, the 200th and 209th since the ban on atmospheric testing in 1963, and brought the overall total to 384.

$232,000 Asked for Drug War

The Los Angeles City Council Friday asked for $232,000 to allow Police Chief Edward M. Davis to start a massive antinarcotics program immediately.

City Administrative Officer C. Erwin Piper and the council's finance committee were asked to find the money from this year's budget.

Military Court Forbids Reopening Rape Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's highest military court Friday barred new trials for hundreds of court-martialed servicemen.

In a 2-1 decision, the U.S. Court of Military Appeals said the convicted men cannot reopen their cases on the basis of a Supreme Court decision last June. That decision said servicemen have the right to be tried in a civilian court for crimes that are not "service-connected."

The military court ruled the June decision does not apply retroactively to servicemen whose appeals were final prior to that decision.

The ruling came in the case of Joseph P. Mercer, a former sergeant in the Army who pleaded guilty in 1967 of raping his eight-year-old stepdaughter off base. Mercer, who lived at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii at the time, is serving a 10-year sentence at the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks, Ft. Leavenworth.

HE ASKED the court to reconsider its order denying review of his case or release on habeas corpus.

The court said it did not decide the question of service connection in the Mercer case, but instead said the June Supreme court decision, in the rape case of James F. O'Callahan, applied "only to those convictions that were not final before June 2, 1969."

The military appeals court in September had held the O'Callahan decision could be used to challenge convictions that were still in stages of direct appeal when the Supreme Court acted.

However, this new ruling bars the use of the high court decision when the direct appeals were completed by June and subsequent collateral, or habeas corpus, appeals were pending.

The dissenter, Judge Homer Ferguson, said the court of military appeals should have waited because the same issue was granted review by the Supreme Court Feb. 27 in the case of Isiah Reiford, a soldier serving 30 years at hard labor on two 1961 rape convictions.

THE RELFORD case also gives the Supreme Court an opportunity to decide whether the rape of a serviceman's relative on base is service connected. If so, it would be subject to court-martial trial. If not, he would have the right to a civilian trial.

The military court said "a reliable estimate of the number of court-martial convictions that could be the application of O'Callahan is nearly impossible to secure."

"For one fiscal year of 1968, the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force conducted approximately 74,000 special and general courts-martial. If only the smallest fraction of these courts-martial and those conducted in the other years since 1916 involved an O'Callahan issue, it is an understatement that thousands of courts-martial would still be subject to review."

POW's Wife Gets Tape of Husband

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Ann Schrupp, wife of an American prisoner of war in North Vietnam, returned from Paris Friday assured by a tape recording that her husband is alive.

She said she was certain that anti-U.S. statements attributed to him were made "under extreme pressure."

"WHEN I WENT to Paris, I had no certainty that my husband was alive, although I knew he was a prisoner of war," said Mrs. Schrupp, of Fayetteville, N.C. "I was thrilled when I heard his voice."

Mrs. Schrupp, whose husband Maj. Raymond C. Schrupp was reported captured in May of 1968, received the recording from Madeleine Riffaud, reporter for the French Communist party organ, L'Humanite.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The wives of three missing

American servicemen received word Friday their husbands are being held in North Vietnam, an official of the United We Stand group reported.

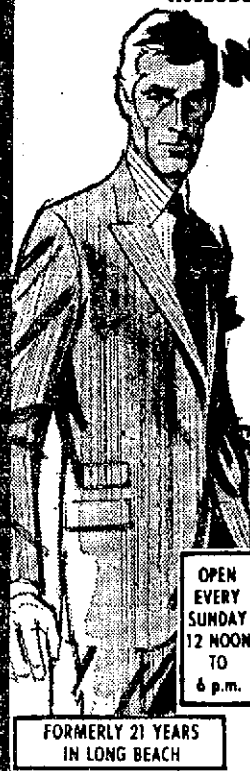

Word came in telegrams from Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme, the spokesman said. United We Stand was established last year by H. Ross Perot, a Dallas billionaire, to establish communication with the North Vietnamese about American prisoners.

WIVES WHO received reports were Mrs. Bonnie Singleton of Dallas, who said it was the first time she had heard from Capt. Jerry A. Singleton since he went down over North Vietnam in November 1965; Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes, wife of Air Force Lt. Col. James L. Hughes, of Santa Fe, N.M., and Mrs. Robert Hinkley, Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., wife of Air Force Capt. Robert Hinkley.

NIXON'S STAND ON LAOS

a divine right to deceive the American people."

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, endorsed the effort to enlist Soviet-British cooperation in an attempt to stabilize Laos and said Nixon "is putting Russia on the spot."

SOME SENATORS who have contributed to a rising chorus of criticism withheld comment pending further examination of the lengthy presidential position paper.

One of the critics, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, did say he is glad Nixon has called for British and Soviet cooperation in efforts to stabilize the Laotian situation.

And Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he and others are concerned over Nixon's statement that air support is being supplied at the request of the Laotian government.

"Our increasing involvement in Vietnam started with just that kind of air support," Javits said.

Sen. Stuart Symington asserted the Administration's refusal to permit the return of Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley from Laos may be related to his role as the over-all supervisor of U.S. military efforts in the country.

THE MISSOURI Democrat said that, when he was in Laos 2½ years ago, "the ambassador was also acting as chief of staff of United States military efforts in the northern part of that country."

"If that is what he is doing now . . . I can understand why there is some resistance to bringing him back at this time," said Symington. He is chairman of a Foreign Relations subcommittee that has been trying to get an agreement with the Administration for the release of testimony given in hearings on U.S. activities in Laos.

"I would hope, however," he added, "that as soon as possible we can find out more about just what is going on in that country; and Ambassador Godley . . . is obviously the best person to supply that information."

IN HIS STATEMENT Friday, President Nixon disclosed the United States is flying combat support missions in a war in Laos that has cost nearly 400 U.S. casualties and 400 planes in six years.

But again Nixon said there are no American ground combat troops in the little Asian nation and no plans for sending any. And he appealed to the Soviet Union and Britain to join in efforts to restore neutrality to Laos.

Nixon said he had not considered it in the national interest before to go into detail on the military support activities in Laos that went on in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations because this might have hindered efforts of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma to get Communist countries that signed a 1962 Geneva agreement to adhere to its terms calling for neutrality.

"In recent days, however," Nixon said, "there has been intense public speculation to the effect that the United States involvement in Laos has substantially increased in violation of the Geneva accords, that American ground forces are engaged in combat in Laos and that our air activity has had the effect of escalating the conflict."

"Because these reports are grossly inaccurate, I have concluded that our national interest will be served by putting the subject into perspective through a precise description of our current activities in Laos."

HE WENT ON to say the total number of Americans employed by the U.S. government in Laos is 616. Officials said these are advisers. In addition there are 424 others working on contract to the government or to firms under government contracts.

Of the total of 1,040 Americans, he said, 320 are engaged in military advisory or training activities and 323 in logistics chores.

A White House expert said the actual number of military men in the country is 228.

"No American stationed in Laos has ever been killed in ground combat operations," the President said.

"U.S. personnel in Laos during the past year has not increased while during the past few months, North Vietnam has sent over 13,000 additional combat ground troops into Laos."

Nixon had skirted around the matter of whether the United States was providing air combat support for Laotian forces when asked about it at news conferences earlier but Friday he brought it into the open for the first time.

LAOS WANTS U.S. ARMS, NO TROOPS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Laotian ambassador to the United States asserted Friday that his government does not want U.S. ground troops operating in Laos and that it is doing its utmost to prevent a war like that in Vietnam.

Ambassador Khumking Souvanlay said his country is under attack by more than 50,000 North Vietnamese regular forces and that it urgently needs more U.S. military assistance, particularly M-16 rifles and more sophisticated aircraft for transporting troops.

North Vietnamese troops in Laos already are using first-rate weapons, including tanks, which are supplied by the Soviet Union, Communist China and Czechoslovakia, he said.

REFERRING to the North Vietnamese supply route through eastern Laos into South Vietnam, the President said:

"In addition to air operations on the Ho Chi Minh trail, we have continued to carry out reconnaissance flights in northern Laos and fly combat support missions for Laotian forces when requested to do so by the Royal Laotian government."

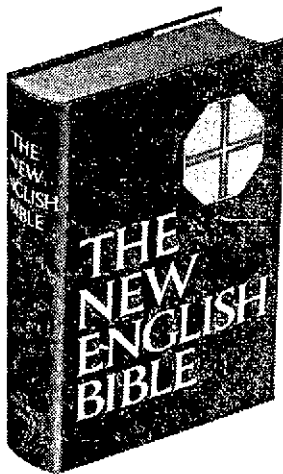

The level of U.S. combat air operations has been increased, Nixon said, only as the number of North Vietnamese in Laos and the level of their aggression has increased. The U.S. goal in Laos, he said, has been and still is to reduce the country's involvement rather than to increase it and to restore peace under the 1962 Geneva pact.

"That," the chief executive said, "is the picture of our current aid to Laos. It is limited. It is requested. It is supportive and defensive. It continues the purposes and operations of two previous administrations. It has been necessary to protect American lives in Vietnam and to preserve a precarious but important balance in Laos."

Nixon said he hopes a genuine quest for peace can begin now. But he said that this will require the efforts of the Geneva conference cochairmen — the United States, Britain and Russia — and other nations which signed the accord.

"BUT MOST of all," he said, "it will require realism and reasonableness from Hanoi for it is the North Vietnamese, not we, who have escalated the fighting. Today there are 67,000 North Vietnamese troops in this small country. There are no American troops there. Hanoi is not threatened by Laos; it runs risks only when it moves its forces across borders."

Reds Could Dominate Laos Regime

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The stage seems ready for dramatic developments in Laos at a time when Americans worry about the depth of their involvement and wonder whether Washington is running out of time and alternatives.

President Nixon says he wants the help of the Soviet Union and Britain, co-chairmen of the Geneva conference on Laos, to bring peace.

North Vietnam's leading Communist newspaper a few days ago provided a clue to Hanoi intentions in Laos. It said the recapture of the Plain of Jars was an important step toward "overthrowing the clique of traitors" in Vientiane.

The Communist-led Pathet Lao announced Friday a proposal for peace which tied in neatly with the Hanoi clue. The proposal, with its demands for a U.S. bombing halt and withdrawal, was a faithful echo of Hanoi's demands in Vietnam.

It would be no surprise now if the Pathet Lao, again following the lead of its Viet Cong counterpart in Vietnam, were persuaded by Hanoi to proclaim some sort of provisional revolutionary government group, preparatory to reasserting its right to re-enter the Vientiane government.

The North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao statements suggest that the target of the military offensive is Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of the Vientiane government. Communist forces now control two-thirds of the little nation and at this moment may be in a position, if they choose, to return the Pathet Lao leaders to the long-moribund three-way government in Vientiane.

LEGALLY, the Pathet Lao remains part of that government under terms of the 1962 Geneva accords which were supposed to insure Laos' independence.

The sultry climate of Laos is getting hotter than ever for Souvanna, who, by North Vietnamese standards, is head of that "clique of traitors" which Hanoi says must be overthrown. He will be in trouble if the Pathet Lao, strongly backed by 50,000 well-equipped North Vietnamese troops, decides to exercise its right of return to the Vientiane government.

What would take place would be the re-establishment of a three-way regime as set up by the 1962 accords—neutralist, right wing and Communist. The Communists, with North Vietnamese backing, would be in a strong position. Should they dominate the government and get rid of Souvanna, they could remove the legally for U.S. bombing, which is carried out now with the consent of the prime minister.

The alternatives for the United States then would be unpleasant.

—The Americans could continue bombing without Vientiane consent.

—They could stop bombing and not only surrender Laos but leave the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos completely free for the transport of supplies to Hanoi's forces in South Vietnam. That would be a blow to Saigon.

—They could send in combat troops to save the situation, but President Nixon says he won't, especially not without congressional consent.

N. Viet Units Poised for Attack in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (U) — Two North Vietnamese battalions totaling perhaps 1,000 men appear to be preparing for an assault on the government bases of Sam Thong and Long Cheng, informed military sources said Friday.

They said the two battalions were thought to be elite sappers units used to spearhead assaults that overran the Plain of Jars two weeks ago. Sam Thong, a supply base, and Long Cheng, army headquarters lie west of the plain.

About 300 North Vietnamese, broken up into small, squad-sized units, had been counted in contacts with Meo tribal guerrillas fighting for the government, the sources said.

The units were as close as 15 miles from Sam Thong, the main U.S.-operated supply base and capital of the Meo hill tribes and slightly further away from Long Cheng.

Another alternative is one Nixon is suggesting. In what seems an atmosphere of urgency, he reports sending letters to Moscow and London, as cochairmen responsible for maintaining the 1962 accords. Possibly he is thinking in terms of another Geneva conference of the power involved.

This alternative is not a particularly happy one, either. The Soviet Union has some reason not to be cordial to the idea, since the Communist side is holding the aces in Laos at the moment. There is some hope in the long run, however, for limited Soviet cooperation.

THE REASON is Laos' geography. The Red Chinese are strongly entrenched in the two north-eastern provinces. The landlocked country as a whole is a potential key to influence and perhaps domination over all mainland Southeast Asia. From the standpoint of strategic importance Laos can be a dangerous flashpoint. It also can be a point of conflict between Moscow and help cool it off and participated in a conference which set up the three-way government.

Worker Booked in Death of Boys

A 51-year-old construction worker, booked on suspicion of the murder of two young boys by Los Angeles Police homicide detectives, was being questioned Friday by sheriff's detectives about several unsolved cases, including the disappearance of Stella Darlene Nolan in 1953.

Edwards, who lives in Sylmar and told police he was a heavy equipment operator, was arrested by police together with a 15-year-old boy, after three young girls had been kidnapped from their home in Sylmar early Friday morning.

Oldsters Told, Help the Young

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new director of the Peace Corps Friday urged the older generation to "provide opportunities for young Americans to work on the problems that disturb them most."

Joseph H. Blatchford, a 35-year-old Californian and the youngest audience head in the Nixon Administration, told an audience of businessmen "we can put a million volunteers to work in America today and we can put them to work on some of our worst and most urgent problems."

He said U.S. education, in particular, must emphasize practical experience as well as academic credit.

"More and more young Americans are seeking their education in the streets and forsaking conventional education to work with the gutsy problems that are the unfinished business of America, the problems of racial strife, hunger, unemployment and despair among the disadvantaged," he said.

TWO OF THE girls, according to police, escaped from the pair and alerted police. A sheriff's helicopter found the third sister wandering alone in a remote canyon area of the San Gabriel Mountains. She had not been molested, they said.

Edwards and the young boy later turned themselves in to LAPD's Foothill Division and detectives said the Nolan case as well as those of three other youngsters came to light.

Little Stella, who was eight years old at the time, disappeared from Auction City in Norwalk on June 20, 1953. A massive search and investigation failed to uncover any trace of her. Her family, residents of Norwalk at the time, later moved away.

Edwards was booked, following interrogation by detectives, on suspicion of murder in the slayings of a 16-year-old and a 13-year-old boy, whose bodies were found in the Devonshire area.

The 15-year-old boy was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Long List of Crimes; 4 Jailed

Costa Mesa police arrested three men and a woman Friday on suspicion of participating in a crime spree from Illinois to California.

Held for investigation of felony offenses including armed robbery, burglary, car theft and sale of dangerous drugs were Howard Tschirhart, 31, of Costa Mesa; James E. Jackson, 25, and his wife Patricia, 24, of Independence Mo.; and Jack C. Matney, 32, of Denver.

Officers said they confiscated a .32-caliber pistol and a sawed-off shotgun at the time of the arrest.

lengthy motion and was "appalled . . . at the outlandish requests."

"In reviewing what you've done since I granted you pro per privileges, it looks like you've turned into a messenger boy, bringing in motions prepared by others. You can carry documents prepared for you by someone else, but you can't meaningfully do anything thereafter."

"Based on your performance, I am satisfied you cannot act as your own attorney. If you want to trial it would be a fundamental, absolute denial of due process," Judge Keene said.

Manson, who sat quietly at the counsel table listening, asked if he could be heard.

"I can't deny what you say, but again, I ask the court to look through my eyes. You've given me three weeks to become an attorney."

"I've asked for associate counsel. I told you I couldn't be a lawyer, but I didn't want to lose my voice."

AT THIS POINT Judge Keene attempted to interrupt, and Manson shouted, "Now wait a minute!"

As the jurist began to speak louder, asking the hippie leader to keep quiet, Manson countered: "I kept quiet for you . . . now let me finish . . . I am a man too, Mr."

He finally bellowed through the courtroom: "I have a voice, do you hear it?"

At this point four "family" members, sitting in the courtroom jumped to their feet, but were quickly surrounded by deputies.

"That's another occasion of your instability," Judge Keene said. "When the court speaks, you listen. Your status is now changed . . . I will find you are indigent and appoint a good trial attorney, Charles Hollopeter, as your attorney."

MANSON, by this time, had risen to his feet at the counsel table: "There's no love in your courtroom," he said, almost in tears. "Go wash your hands, they're dirty."

At this point "family" members joined in the fray.

"You are a mockery of justice," one shouted. "You're a joke . . . there is no justice . . . May I say your conduct has been most outlandish."

Judge Keene ordered the arrest of three of the four standing family members — Katherine (Gypsy) Share, Mark Ross and Sandy Good. He immediately

Hydrocarbons Cut in Standard's Gas

From Our L.A. Bureau

For $950,000 a Watts self-help group took possession Friday of a $9-million-a-year chain of four supermarkets.

The acquisition by the Watts Labor Community Action Committee was "the most significant for blacks in the whole country," said the committee's administrator, Ted Watkins.

"Our goal is to become completely independent of any government subsidies," Watkins said. "This will give us a substantial base for turning profits back into the community."

Half the markets' profits will be plowed into other economic development projects, he said.

Watkins praised Max Katz, owner of the Shop-Rite markets, for marking down the purchase price from $1.5 million.

Loans and a grant from a union organization helped the committee to buy the chain.

The first independent test of Standard Oil Company's new T-310 gasoline shows an almost 50 per cent cut in hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions—the two main components of smog—county officials announced Friday.

The test, performed by the Los Angeles County's Mechanical Department, was conducted on six high-mileage Sheriff's pursuit cars.

MADE AT the request of the United States Public Health Service's Air Pollution Control Testing Laboratories, the tests were conducted by Robert O. Sudduth, director of the County Mechanical Department.

"Remember," Sudduth told newsmen, "that these were very dirty engines to begin with and the gasoline is merely cleaning the engines. We are assuming, at this time, that the new additive is tending to clean these engines up and bringing the emissions back to the level that they were when they were new."

Sudduth said his department has not, as yet, pulled any cylinder heads to check deposit buildup using the new fuel as opposed to those using normal fuels.

In addition to continuing the tests on the sheriff's cars, six more vehicles will be added to the tests, Sudduth said, including two van-type trucks.

Buy Cars With Less Pollutants

WASHINGTON — The Senate Commerce Committee Friday approved a bill that would require the federal government to purchase motor vehicles with the lowest amount of exhaust pollutants.

It was the first major environmental measure to reach the Senate floor this session.

The measure is intended to speed up development of smogless cars by providing economic incentives for their production and by providing a transitional test market for developers of new propulsion systems.

Bus Vote Dropped

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Gov. Preston Smith Friday withdrew his request that the school busing issue be submitted for a straw vote in the May 2 Democratic primary.

Smith said he did not want to pursue the busing referendum if it will be an "emotional issue."

Laos War Escalation Ripped

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

FRESNO — U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston charged here Friday night America is financing a secret and escalating war in Laos and that President Nixon is "copying the Communists" in violation of the Geneva accords.

Keynoting a three-day candidate endorsing convention of the California Democratic Council, Cranston said there are clear signs the Laos escalation parallels the Vietnam escalation of 1964, thus illustrating a Nixon Administration "double risk policy that could keep American troops in Southeast Asia for years."

THE AIR war over Laos has jumped from 4,500 American sorties per month during the time we were bombing North Vietnam to between 12,500 to 15,000 per month now, Cranston said. He did not reveal the source of the figures.

Mercenaries equipped, trained and paid by Americans are Meo tribesmen, commanded by Lao officers, according to Cranston. "The Administration has between 15,000 and 40,000 of them on the payroll," he said.

"Oddly, we are copying the Communists in this affair. They are violating the Geneva accords but they won't admit it. So we won't admit that we are violating the accords either. The last thing I expected to catch Richard Nixon doing was copying the Communists," said Cranston.

The "dirty work" of American-paid mercenaries and of civilian pilots hired by the CIA and AID to fly mercenaries and supplies around Laos is easily covered up, the senator said. Planes shot down are lost in "bad weather conditions"; whether friendly villages are hit "or whether women and children in unfriendly villages are burned to death, nobody who counts will ever see the results—and since nobody knows, nobody need care."

"Laos is, short, a convenient place for our minor league Metternichs to defend their own self-determined concepts of our national interests," Cranston said.

CRANSTON hit Laos Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley for stifling and arresting newsmen who reported on American air operations out of Laos. "The secrecy of this dirty, little war has probably given Ambassador Godley the illusion that he is a Roman consul. It's no wonder then that he speaks more like Pontius Pilate than an American official. That is the kind of mentality that got us into the Southeast Asian quagmire in the first place."

The Nixon Administration, Cranston charged, still mistakenly seeks victory in Vietnam. "My fear," he said, "is that 'Vietnamization' has become just another way of paying foreign troops to fight a war we want fought... King George used Hessians... Richard Nixon will use the Vietnamese."

He said Nixon's gradual withdrawal plan and the "unprecedented attack on the mass media" are two devices the President is using to dampen criticism of the Vietnam war.

SENATOR Cranston urged getting all American troops out of Vietnam as rapidly as can be accomplished with their safety in mind, and by an announced timetable, not a secret one.

"A secret timetable is not a timetable at all. It is a device for an administration to claim credit for the things it does, and to hide from the public all that it isn't doing or could be doing faster."

The scenario, said Cranston, "is alarming. The war goes on in Vietnam and in Laos. The kind of thinking which caused it in one administration (President Johnson's) now permeates the new administration and the end is not in sight."

He said the Nixon Administration "is not telling it the way it is when it says no American military personnel have been engaged in combat on the ground in Laos."

CDC President John Burton, a San Francisco assemblyman, who made the convention an open one by inviting Democratic delegates whether or not they are CDC affiliated, wiped out any intimation that the group might be moderating in its posture.

IN A NEWS conference, he said CDC is not self-conscious over being called controversial because "CDC normally has been proven to be right."

Burton said "We've got to start thinking about the distribution of wealth. You won't solve violence until you solve economic inequities. We should take a hard look at possible nationalization of the oil industry. Oil is taken from the ground and the ground belongs to all of us, not to just a few."

He said the route to Democratic Party success includes registration of the poor, the elderly and the

Maddox Warns Birch Unit 'U.S. Sold Down the River'

Associated Press

The American people are the victims of the "greatest theft in the history of our nation," Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox said in Los Angeles Friday.

The theft, Maddox said, is of the Constitution and "our precious rights."

His remarks were made to a John Birch Society Council dinner.

"The United States Constitution is being carted off piece by piece, even ignored or cast aside when it best fits the purpose of the socialists and weak Americans in our government," Maddox said.

"Our precious rights, not only as Americans, but as human beings, are being carried away in politicians' pockets and in bureaucrats' briefcases to be sold down the river to the highest bidder," he said.

HE BLAMED the "deadly Communist enemies of God and America" for "this monstrous crime."

Maddox also said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of news media and demonstrators is nothing more than an attempt by the Administration to divert attention from the nation's problems.

"What the present administration is doing is playing a trick on the American public that it must have learned by watching some old cowboy movie on the late show," Maddox said. "The crooks come into town, set fire to an old warehouse or the livery stable, and while everybody's attention is diverted, the crooks rob the bank."

The Georgia governor said the vice president "knows that the Administration is very much a part of the gang that is stealing Americans blind, and so his little fire was just a diversionary tactic."

Reagan Sees 1970 as 'Difficult Year'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday forecast a "difficult economic year" for California during 1970.

He issued the assessment in his annual economic message to the Legislature.

"This will be a difficult economic year as the federal government strives to contain inflation," Reagan said.

"Federal policies in 1969 have laid the groundwork for significant reductions in rates of price increases in 1970, but the need for continued restraint is still apparent."

"The path to price stability has dangers but it must be followed to bring about future prosperity for our citizens."

He told the lawmakers that personal income in California increased to $83 billion during 1969, an increase of almost 7 per cent per capita.

BUT HE noted "unfortunately, much of the rise was offset by higher prices."

He reported widespread gains in such areas as services, trade, finance, transportation, government and home construction. However, he noted aerospace manufacturing was a "weak area" that suffered from cutbacks in national defense spending.

Reagan said federal anti-inflationary efforts have curtailed growth in federal spending that President Nixon's proposed budget said was "fiscally responsible."

"Excessive restraint cannot be applied too long. Yet excessive ease applied too soon would reinforce inflationary pressures so that future efforts of restraint would become even more difficult."

He said estimates of economic activity which assume an easing of federal anti-inflationary efforts indicate "a moderate slowing" in the growth of the economy.

Student Talks Hailed by Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday he didn't know if he is "reaching the average student," but he was pleased with the most recent of his talks with student leaders.

It was the fifth in a series of Reagan-student sessions that began last November over the subject of the Educational Opportunity Program.

That topic plus increased student involvement in state government made up most of the agenda of the closed, two-hour meeting in a hotel at the Sacramento airport. Students from the university, colleges and, for the first time, community colleges, attended.

Reagan also said he emphasized to students that funds for the EOP program were increased, not cut in his proposed 1970-71 budget.

Student leader Jeff Hess of Santa Rosa Junior College praised the meetings with the governor. "I mean why shouldn't he get his information from students? It's relevant to the times," said Hess.

disadvantaged plus convincing the middle class of the hoodwinking Gov. Ronald Reagan is giving them.

CONGRESSMAN John V. Tunney of Riverside, a self-styled moderate in this liberal den, told newsmen he seeks the CDC endorsement for his U.S. Senate candidacy because a candidate for statewide office must make an appeal to all factions of the Democratic Party "and I feel my candidacy represents the main stream."

Tunney acknowledged that the CDC, over the past few years, has demonstrated that it is more liberal than the party as a whole. He said that winning CDC endorsement would indicate the organization is interested in his program and platform and in having a winner against Republican incumbent George Murphy. His more liberal primary opponent, Rep. George Brown, of Monterey Park, is favored to win CDC support at Sunday's final session.

Grand Jury Requested to Probe Schrade Case

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dist. Atty. John M. Price said Friday he will ask the Sacramento County Grand Jury to look into Senate Leader Jack Schrade's acceptance of $5,000 from a special interest lobby.

Price said the Grand Jury is tentatively scheduled to meet and discuss the case Tuesday night.

The senator has been under investigation by Price and two other district attorneys, from San Diego and Tulare counties.

Schrade, R-San Diego, received $5,000 last June from the California Association of Thrift and Loan Companies. The payment, which Schrade says was a campaign contribution, came three years before his next election and at a time when he was vice chairman of a committee considering a bill sponsored by the lobby. Schrade voted for the measure.

Price and the other two district attorneys announced on Feb. 24 they had begun an investigation.

Friday, Price was asked whether he planned to take the case to the Grand Jury.

"They're meeting at my request in regard to the Schrade matter," Price replied.

ASKED whether he was going to ask for an indictment, the district attorney would only reply, "I'm presenting the matter to the Grand Jury."

He declined to elaborate. It is a felony both to attempt to bribe a legislator and for a legislator to accept a bribe.

Schrade was not available for comment. The other two district attorneys said they were not taking their cases to their grand juries — at least not yet.

San Diego County Dist. Atty. Don Keller said Friday, "Mr. Price and I have been discussing together this matter. I'm not going to take any action of that nature in San Diego at least until the proceedings up there are over. I'm not going to do anything until he's finished up there."

POINT REYES PARK PLEASES MURPHY

POINT REYES (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., toured Point Reyes National Seashore Friday and said he was "extremely impressed and awed by the rugged and majestic beauty of the area."

He expressed confidence of quick congressional approval of a bill to authorize acquisition of the remaining land necessary to complete the park.

Murphy toured the park along Bear Valley Trail to the Pacific Ocean.

He said the park "was an excellent example of unspoiled nature and must be preserved in this condition for future generations to enjoy."

Naval Hospital to Get Pressure Unit

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science

A $31,000 "hyperbaric bed" will be placed in operation next week at Long Beach Naval Hospital in an expansion of the hospital's medical research program.

The Naval Hospital is one of eight medical centers in the United States authorized by the Food and Drug Administration to treat a variety of diseases by oxygen under pressure. It is the only military installation sanctioned for such research.

Cmdr. George B. Hart, chief of surgery at the hospital, described dramatic treatment results by hyperbaric therapy Thursday at a meeting of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce armed services committee.

The Naval Hospital already has two body-size, single-person hyperbaric chambers and also uses the large Navy recompression chamber on Terminal Island in its research program.

The oxygen-under-pressure treatment is technically known as hyperbaric oxygenation therapy, and is called OHP or HBO for short.

Dr. Hart said excellent results have been obtained in the treatment of burns involving 20 to 50 per cent of the body surface. Seventeen burn patients have been treated by the method so far.

HEALING OCCURS in half the time required by conventional treatment methods, he reported.

Long Beach is the only hyperbaric center in the United States currently treating burns. Dr. Hart continued. Two other centers — in the Netherlands and Japan — also are using the technique to treat burns.

The pressurized oxygen prevents infection which can kill in many instances of severe burns.

Dr. Hart said a study being conducted in conjunction with Wadsworth Veterans Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, has shown that oxygen under pressure is giving "very favorable" results in treating senile persons. The treatments improve memory function, for one thing.

He said the treatment has also proved beneficial for victims of osteomyelitis, a bone inflammation; carbon monoxide poisoning; barbiturate poisoning; clogged-up arteries in the legs; dangerous air bubble in the bloodstream; and gas gangrene, a complication of wound infection.

Dr. Hart said 15 to 18 patients are treated daily — 8 to 10 at the hospital itself, the rest at Terminal Island, where the Navy's large lock permits treatment of five persons at a time.

Patients are subjected to oxygen at two to two and one-half atmospheres. (One atmosphere is the atmospheric pressure at sea level.) A single treatment customarily lasts two hours, and the number of daily treatments required varies with the patient's disorder.

DR. HART said that a total of 130 patients have been treated by hyperbaric oxygenation in the past two years.

The Navy, because of the availability of trained personnel, is able to give an OHP treatment for only $7.50. The big item in OHP is personnel, not the initial cost of the chamber, although the two small chambers now in use cost $21,000 each. (The new $31,000 chamber that goes operational next week has been placed in Long Beach Naval Hospital "on permanent loan" by the manufacturer.)

Although no deleterious side effects have yet occurred in patients subjected to OHP, the procedure can be dangerous, Dr. Hart says.

"A hyperbaric chamber can be a living bomb," he notes.

"The biggest hazard is the possibility of explosion. Also, if pressurization goes beyond two and one-half atmospheres,

DOUGLAS VEEP
George F. Spradling, 54, a 29-year veteran of Douglas Aircraft Co. at Long Beach, Friday was named vice president-material of the McDonnell Douglas division. In his previous position as director of procurement since 1961, Spradling was responsible for billions of dollars in purchasing and subcontracting for the DC-8, DC-9 and DC-10 programs.

Council OKs Contract for Land Sale

A revised contract for state acquisition of a portion of Coolidge Park for the Long Beach Freeway-Artesia Freeway interchange was approved this week by the City Council.

The original agreement was approved by councilmen Nov. 6, 1968, and provided for state payment of $61,846. It was canceled at state request because of a change in the plans.

Under the new agreement, the state will pay the city $71,765, which covers increased damages to park and recreational facilities.

City Manager John R. Mansell said city park and recreation officials have agreed with state representatives on removal and relocation of facilities, and said the state payment covers costs of restoration to meet city specifications.

Sewage Plant Ordered Shut Due to Odor

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

The Sunset Beach Sanitary District Friday was ordered to cease operating its sewage treatment plant because of "an odor nuisance."

The order, issued by the Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board, is the first under the new Porter-Cologne Act which expanded the authority of the state's water quality boards as of last Jan. 1.

Thirteen experts testified Friday as the board convened at Seal Beach after Santa Ana Superior Court had refused an injunction brought by the sanitary district. The district had challenged the board's authority. The court denial of an injunction plea by the district in effect upheld the control board's authority and the validity of the Porter-Cologne Act.

Under the cease and desist order, the Sunset Beach Sanitary District must immediately shut down its sewage treatment plant on Warner Avenue near Pacific Coast Highway.

EFFLUENCE PRODUCED in the district's service area is now being discharged into the Huntington Beach city sewer lines after primary treatment. In the future, the raw sewage will be discharged into the lines to be handled by the County's treatment plant near the juncture of Santa Ana River and Pacific Coast Highway.

The ocean outfall line maintained by the Sunset Beach Sanitary District collapsed three weeks ago. Since then, it has discharged through the Huntington Beach system after primary treatment. It was this treatment which caused the offensive odors, the Water Quality Board was told.

Any violation of the order, intentional or negligent, could result in civil damages of $5,000 per day, the board informed the district.

Liberation Lectures Draw Few Women

A disappointingly small crowd turned out for noon lectures by two advocates of greater liberation for women at California State College at Long Beach Friday.

About 50 persons showed up for the lectures and they could scarcely hear either Terry Hardy or Police Carmen because the public address system failed to function and a rock band was performing nearby.

Panel discussions following the noon meeting were much more satisfactory, according to Women's Liberation Front spokesmen, one of whom said they were "greatly pleased." About 10 small workshops of 20 to 30 persons each convened in CSLB classrooms to discuss "Women's Oppression Oppresses Men," "Birth Control and Abortion" and other subjects.

"There was a great deal of interest demonstrated on the campus," said Pat Stanyo, of WLF. She said a meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Monday, at 1148 Mahanna Ave. and another at noon, March 16, in CSLB's Room LA 3-107.

Delays Penalize Zoning Opponents, Board Told

If public hearings on zoning matters are continued over an extended period, opponents of the project are penalized, Planning Commissioner Donald W. Phillips said Friday.

Phillips referred to a case involving proposed apartments at 6980 Orcutt Ave., which originally came before the commission last Nov. 6, and subsequently was postponed five times.

"You'd have to be a very tenacious objector to keep coming to the hearings," Phillips said.

He pointed out that the applicant in such cases is really the only one who knows whether he is going to show up for any given date, and opponents may appear, only to find the applicant is not ready to proceed.

A spokesman for the Planning Department said hearings which are continued are the exception, with most cases being concluded on the day they are scheduled.

The case involved was the application of Mrs. Edna H. Ballard to construct 13 dwelling units on a 77x325-foot lot. The application originally had proposed 18 units, but the Planning Department opposed this as overdevelopment of the property.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. said the revised plans, which were approved Friday by the commission, provide larger dwelling units, individual patios, laundry facilities and a children's play area.

FPC Names Legal Advisor

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The husband of a former Long Beach resident Friday was named attorney-advisor to Federal Power Commissioner Carl E. Bagge.

The appointment went to William E. Hynan, an attorney with the FPC for nine years. He is married to the former Marilyn Young of Long Beach.

The Hynans, who now live in Silver Spring, Md., have one daughter.

110 MARCH AT L.B. OFFICE

Welfare Pickets

More than 110 persons picketed the county's Department of Public Social Services Long Beach office Friday, charging working conditions there were "unbearable" and denouncing the agency's administrative practices.

About 75 social workers and representatives of the Welfare Rights Organization and Carmelitos Tenants Union participated in the lunch hour demonstration at 1917 Long Beach Blvd.

Spokesmen for the social workers said they were "fed up" with heavy workloads, "administrative inaccessibility and insensitivity and overcrowded working conditions."

Asking that their names be kept secret, the spokesmen said cases per social worker have tripled during the last few months.

"We are trying to handle as many as 140 clients," the spokesman said of the social workers assigned to the DPSS office.

James Derry, director of the welfare office's family service division, was chief target of the social workers' criticism. They charged him with being "insensitive and seemingly unaware that there is a problem."

Derry, who said he agreed with the social workers that caseloads are unusually heavy and working conditions "are not what I think they should be," denied the charges.

During the hour-long demonstration, two welfare recipients passed out and were rushed to a nearby hospital for medical attention.

Tanks Installed and Full, Gas Station Denied Zone Permit

A self-service gas station at 4855 Bellflower Blvd. has been denied a permit to operate, even though the underground tanks and gas pumps have been installed and filled with gasoline.

The City Council upheld a decision of the Planning Commission, which denied the applicant, Walter K. Janssen, a special permit because the property is not zoned for a gas station.

The Planning Commission noted the Janssen property is just south of the intersection of Bellflower Boulevard and Del Amo Boulevard, and that all four corners already have gas stations on them. The proposed new station was to be operated in conjunction with a drive-in dairy.

Peter H. Fogarty, representing Douglas Oil Co., said company engineers asked the building department if they needed a permit to install the underground tanks and were told they did not. They were not told anything about meeting zoning requirements, Fogarty said.

Douglas A. Meadows of the Building Department told councilmen that the department checks zoning for specific pieces of property, but said if they were asked only the question whether a permit was needed for underground tanks, they would not have mentioned zoning.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer told councilmen that the special permit issued nine years ago for the drive-in dairy specifically limited the property to the dairy use.

Fogarty pointed out that the present owner of the dairy acquired it only a year ago and was unaware of the restrictions.

The case resulted in two related actions by the council.

On motion of Councilman Paul R. Deats, the council referred to its ordinance committee the question of whether underground tanks should not be required to have building permits.

Also on Deats' motion, councilmen referred to their legislative committee a suggestion that state legislation might be advisable to require that special permits and conditions imposed on property be recorded with the county recorder so they would be reported in a title search.

L.B. Singers to Perform at Auditorium

The Long Beach chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will present a 2 1/2-hour concert at 8:15 p.m., today, in Long Beach Auditorium.

The show will feature many of the top quartets in the Southland, including the Far Westerners from the SPEBSQA Downey and Whittier chapters.

Comedy will be provided by the Four Bits of Harmony and the Manhattans, both from the South Bay chapter. The program at the Convention Hall will include the 60-voice Long Beach International City Barber Shop Chorus.

Neighbors Oppose Alcoholics' Center

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Location of a men's alcoholic rehabilitation house in the former Boys' Club quarters at 1585 Chestnut Ave. was vigorously opposed Friday by residents in the area.

The Planning Commission received two petitions, bearing 26 signatures, several individual letters, and a half dozen people spoke in opposition at the hearing.

THE COMMISSION took the matter under advisement, after a motion by Commissioner Arnold B. Berg to deny the request failed for want of a second.

Maurice Bugbee, executive director of the Boys' Clubs of Long Beach, told commissioners the building has been standing idle since the club operation was moved to another area. An offer to purchase the facility was made by Men's 12th Step House, on condition a special permit can be obtained. Bugbee said.

Arthur H. Eaton, board chairman of Men's 12th Step House, said he can "appreciate the apprehension" of the neighbors, but said the rehabilitation center has been operating in Long Beach for 16 years with no complaints filed against it.

"THESE PEOPLE are aware they have a problem, and they have come to ask for help," Eaton said.

Cecil A. Jasram, 843 Olive Ave., said the house has been functioning at 1005 E. Sixth St., for the past 10 years and has had an "excellent relationship" with the city and with police.

Jasram asked the "forebearance" of the property owners in the proposed new site until the occupants "can prove they can be good neighbors."

Mrs. R. R. Neshitt, 1579 Chestnut Ave., owner of a 10-unit apartment house, objected to the location of the alcoholic rehabilitation center in a residential area and adjacent to the Day Nursery at 15th Street and Chestnut Avenue.

David R. Terry, 1606 Chestnut Ave., contended the property "has always been poorly managed—even as the Boys' Club."

Dallas G. Moran who said he owns apartments at 1584 Chestnut Ave., said he had inspected the Men's 12th Step House at its Sixth Street location, and declared "it's a real mess."

Commissioner Berg said he is sympathetic with the problem of alcoholism, but said he opposes such a facility in an R-4 residential zone.

"I'm getting sick and tired of intrusions in this area," Berg declared. "An effort is being made to improve this R-4 zone."

He then moved to deny the application, but failed to get a second. Commissioner William A. Lockett moved to conclude the hearing and take the application under advisement. His motion was adopted.

'Vets in Error Signing Claims'

A lot of veterans who have sent in the combined claim form for a veteran's or a homeowner's exemption have failed to sign it properly, City Assessor J. R. Cole said Friday.

The form, which was mailed out to Long Beach veterans last month, calls for two signatures, Cole explained.

Although a property owner is not entitled to both a veteran's and a homeowner's exemption on the same piece of property, Cole said, his office is advising veterans to sign applications for both.

The city assessor's office then will determine if the applicant is eligible for the $1,000 veteran's exemption. If so, it will be granted. If not, the applicant will be given the $750 homeowner's exemption, Cole said.

An applicant who signs only that portion of the form applying to veteran's exemption, and then fails to qualify for that exemption, would not be eligible for the homeowner's exemption, Cole pointed out.

Claims for the exemptions on city property assessments must be filed with the city assessor's office in City Hall by 5 p.m. April 15. The law does not provide for late filing.

Hospital Garage Plan Under Study

Conversion of a 13-space basement garage at 2633 Pacific Ave. to storage space was asked Friday by Pacific Hospital of Long Beach.

"We're not really asking for abandonment of 13 parking spaces, but their reassignment across the street," Dr. David Payne, hospital administrator, told the Planning Commission.

Dr. Payne said Pacific Hospital acquired the property at 2633 Pacific Ave., a former convalescent hospital, in January, and converted it to an acute unit.

AS A SEPARATE convalescent hospital, he said, the facility had been required to furnish 13 parking spaces. Dr. Payne said Pacific Hospital can provide the spaces in a lot immediately across Pacific Avenue.

Several communications, including one letter with 21 signatures, protested the request, primarily on the basis that parking already is critical in the area.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. recommended denial of the request, and his report said "there seems no valid reason why the applicant could not provide storage area at some other location, other than a direct financial savings."

Commissioners concluded the hearing and took the matter under advisement to make a further study of over-all plans of the hospital.

Passkey Burglars Steal Color TV

A color television set, valued at $440, was taken from the apartment of Robert Phillips, of 1427 California Ave., by burglars who used a passkey to gain entry, Long Beach Police said Friday.

Brave Men React; a Woman Lives

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Sometimes a man shines and gives the badge he wears a brighter luster.

Long Beach Police Sgt. Bob Dillon shone last Wednesday night, when he and two other officers entered a blazing apartment house to fulfill one part of a policeman's duty — saving lives.

Like Officers Bob Kennison and Dick Zylstra who risked the flames with him, Dillon had no time to define duty. He simply reacted. Because he reacted an aged woman still lives — and a veteran of 17 years on the Long Beach Police Department is nursing burns in St. Mary's Hospital.

Dillon — in a matter-of-fact way — recounted the story of what transpired in the inferno of what used to be a building at 237 W. Eighth St.

Kennison and Zylstra were driven down the stairway by flames and smoke. Dillon failed, too.

"I got about as far as they did and had to go back," the 40-year-old sergeant said from his hospital bed Thursday.

"I guess it must have been pretty hot going up," he said, "but I didn't notice."

Dillon is being treated for minor burns of the mouth and around his eyes, suffered when he came too near the blazing upstairs rooms.

Unable to reach a side room on the ground floor, the police broke a plate-glass door, and discovered 83-year-old Ethel Present cowering in a corner. Dillon carried her out.

"I know one thing," said Dillon. "I've never seen that much smoke at a fire in 17 years as a police officer — and that includes oil fires."

"When I carried the woman out on the porch, I couldn't even see the squad car. It was parked right in front with the red light going."

Following the rescue, Dillon began directing traffic to seal off the area for firemen. But he "started coughing and got sick," and when oxygen tanks didn't help, he was taken to the hospital, where he is in good condition. The effects of smoke inhalation are wearing off.

"I'm just sorry we didn't get the man," he said. Albert Prew, 71, died in the upstairs inferno that drove the officers back.

Dillon said his four children, who have visited him in the hospital, "seem to think that's being some kind of a hero. But actually it isn't."

"Besides," he added, "the others did as much as I did. I was just there."

Ethel Present, 83, thanks God he was there.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

We're nearing the end of bare-root planting season of roses, trees, fruits and vegetables. Bare-root roses or trees planted some weeks ago that still haven't sprouted may not be getting enough moisture. Check to see if soil around roots is too loosely packed.

One of the new introduction roses you should plant is Treasure Chest Rose, a 1970 hybrid tea rose introduction of Germains' Inc. It is a vigorous grower four to five feet tall. It has unusually short, recyclo-blooming periods. The blossoms appear almost continuously throughout the active blooming season. It has light yellow petals; the delicate pink edging in the opening buds gradually spreads to the flower centers.

The ovoid-shape buds open slowly. The large blossoms contain, attractively imbricated, 55 to 65 petals.

THE SEED parent was Charlotte Armstrong, the most famous rose parent of all time and the variety that ushered in modern scientific rose breeding. The pollen parent, Fred Howard, is noted for its large, long-lasting blooms with excellent petal substance and strong necks. Both parents are past All America Rose Selections Award Winners, rosedom's highest honor. Treasure Chest has inherited disease resistance, floral profusion, exceptional vigor and large bloom size.

Bare-root planted roses that have sprouted half to inch growth should be mulched with one-half to an inch of manure. The pruned, established roses should be fed. Systemic rose food contains an insecticide impregnated in the fertilizer to control aphids and about half dozen other kinds of sap-sucking insects. It saves the gardener from spraying periodically to keep down the aphid infestations.

The liquid systemic spray has to be used periodically.

A liquid horticultural spreader should be added to make the conventional liquid insecticide stick to the foliage for longer pest-control value. If the horticultural spreader is not available at the nursery, a tablespoon of oil spray can be added to the insecticide spray.

ONE OF THE heat-loving annuals that would benefit if planted now, is the petunia. Petunias develop a good root system, shift into high-gear growth as the weather becomes warmer, and withstand the increasing smog conditions better.

Grow them in pots, too, for more color in the sunny patio area. Be sure to pinch back the tips as you do the mums.

Mum clumps may be dug up and divided. The flower-bed soil they grew in may need rejuvenation before replanting. The clumps should be "heeled in." In another section of the garden. (Dig a hole and temporarily replant the clumps there.)

Scatter four cupsful of steamed bone meal to each one hundred square feet of flower bed. Evenly spread an inch of steer manure. Dig it all in eight to 10 inches deep and water down. Few days later dig over again and let stand several days.

Dig up the heeled in chrysanthemum clumps. Pull apart the plants. Some may have roots on them. Replant the young ones and water well. Keep moist for a few days, until you see new growth developing. Pinch out the tops to force more branch growth.

Don't overlook the Primavera mums, available year around at local nurseries. They are the cushion-type of mums that grow perhaps 15 inches tall but spread out more. The pom-pom-like yellow flowers nearly smother the plant foliage when the plants bloom.

TREASURE CHEST ROSE... Hybrid Tea

Garden Clinic

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. — I have a few black calla lilies. The flowers are about 10 inches long. Although they have bloomed beautifully for four years, they have a bad odor. They multiply well, but I should like to know how to replant them and what kind of food to use. I have used Gro-Master.

A. — Black calla usually stink the first two days or so. Warm weather causes them to smell worse. The callas may be left in the ground for three or four years, then dug up when foliage has died down. Separate the root (bulbs) and replant. As in the case with calla lilies or gladiolus, bulbs can be stored for two or three months before replanting. The fertilizer you use is fine because it contains less nitrogen than phosphoric acid. The 0-10-10 formula fertilizer is specified for bulbs.

Q. — Sometime ago you wrote about vines for ground cover. You named two or three evergreen for that purpose. Somehow I lost the article. Please write on it again. What I would like is a nice looking evergreen that hugs the ground and needs little care except water. Also please tell me what to use to kill the gophers. They are digging holes in my dichondra lawn. I have used moth balls putting them in the holes and packing to exclude air but so far they keep digging. Mrs. L.C.

A. — In my column on ground covers I recommended prostrate rosemary and sand verberna not desert verberna. If you strictly want vines for a ground cover I'd recommend Hall's honeysuckle with white fragrant flowers that change to yellow color, or the white potato vine. There's a fabulous, very low growing, wide spreading, hardy, Juniperus horizontalis "Wilton," carpet juniper. It has intense silver-blue foliage, excellent as ground cover or bank planting. It looks like a living carpet. Gophers, unlike moles, are not carnivorous. They do not consume possible cutworms in a dichondra lawn. Therefore, I'd recommend one of two methods of eliminating gophers from a dichondra lawn. Macabee has a very simple gopher trap which is easy to set. I recommend these traps. You could put Gopher-Tabs in the runways, as recommended on the container label. Those tabs don't get soft quickly. They have an enticing fragrance.

Q. — Should moss roses be left in the ground all year after blooming, or dug up, pruned, or what? Or should I buy fresh plants each spring? Also, do Yucca trees need watering through the year or are they satisfied with the annual rainfall? D. B.

A. — Leave them in the ground, and treat them as you would hybrid tea roses. Prune lightly annually when you prune the other type of roses. Yucca tree needs watering as does any other tropical-effect type of shrub or tree.

JOBS TO DO NOW

Prune hibiscus to shape the bushes. Those frozen back should not be pruned until the new growth has developed.

Feed hydrangeas for better bloom development. Water them generously.

Scatter snail-slug bait periodically to protect the plants from being damaged, and young seedling plants from being devoured.

Trim out long whip-like suckers in citrus trees. Thin out thickly branched areas. Watch for aphids and spider mites. Spray if any found.

Camellias needing pruning should be done shortly. Fertilize them with an acid food.

Husky, climbing roses with many lateral canes should be fed more systemic rose food than the rose bushes.

PLANTING SUGGESTIONS

Set out agatheia, African daisy, ageratum, alyssum, bachelor button, begonia, calendula, Canterbury bell, perennial candytuft, carnation, cineraria, columbine, coral bell, delphinium, dianthus, dusty miller, English daisy, forget-me-not, gaillardia hybrids, gazania hybrids, gloriosa daisy, Iceland poppies, larkspur, lobelia, nierembergia, pansy, pentstemon, petunia, primula, snapdragon, stock, sweet pea, viola, sweet william.

Sow seeds of acrolinium, ageratum, alyssum, aretotis, centauria, cleome, dimorphotheca, gaillardia, helianthus, helichrysum, hollyhock, hummelia, linaria, lobelia, mignonette, nasturtium, nemesis, nicotiana, Shirley poppy, Iceland poppy, pyrethrum, rudbeckia, salpiglossis, scabiosa, statice, thalictrum, thionia, Torenia, Virginia stock.

Set out vegetables, of cabbage, cauliflower, chives, egg plant, onion, parsley, pepper, strawberry.

CLUB NOTES FOR THE SOUTHLAND

Today is California's Arbor Day and in observance of the tree planting day and to commemorate California's Bicentennial, an Olive tree will be planted at Mission San Juan Capistrano.

The 10 a.m. tree-planting ceremony is sponsored by the California Association of Nurserymen, whose 1,000 members have dedicated Arbor Day 1970 to honor the 200th anniversary of the founding of California's first settlement and mission, San Diego. Ten of the C.A.N.'s 16 statewide chapters this week will be planting a tree at each of the 21 California missions as a salute to the bicentennial.

Orange County chapter of the association is planting the olive tree, a tree with historical significance in California, at Mission San Juan Capistrano. William M. Reeves of Rancho Cap Nursery is in charge of the local project.

Participating in the tree-planting ceremony, along with representatives of the Mission, will be Edward Chermak, mayor of San Juan Capistrano; Richard Ochiai of Kyoto Nursery in Tustin, who is president of the C.A.N.'s Orange County chapter, and Reeves.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, at the request of the State Legislature which calls for the designation of Arbor Day on March 7, has issued an Arbor Day proclamation. The date is the anniversary of the birthdate of the state's great naturalist, Luther Burbank.

Arbor Day will be celebrated at South Coast Botanic Garden at 10 a.m. today. Seedling trees will be given to all children who come to the garden accompanied by an adult. Yellow flowering Tabebuia, useful as patio or lawn trees, will be the seedlings this year.

Keynote speaker will be Mrs. Shirley Wells, active on the garden's bird program. Shee will speak on "Ecology in the Botanic Garden."

The garden is at 26701 Rolling Hills Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

The Long Beach parent chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Glendale Federal Saving and Loan Association, 5535 Stearns Ave. Visitors are welcome.

The Downey Branch of the California National Fuchsia Society will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Alameda School cafeteria, 8613 Alameda Ave. Garden consultant Matt Artner, who is with Swift and Co. (Vigro Products), will speak on the use of pesticides favorable to our environment.

The Long Beach Garden Club will present a "Standard Flower Show" Friday from 1-4 p.m. in the Community Room of the Glendale Federal Savings and Loan, 5535 Stearns St. The club is a member of California Garden Clubs and National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. The public is invited.

The Long Beach Cactus Club will mark its 37th anniversary with a party March 15, at 1:30 in the Glendale-Federal Community Room.

Members of other cactus and succulent groups as well as other garden clubs are invited.

The Long Beach Herb Society will present its fourth annual herb exhibit and demonstration of plants and plant products used for flavor, fragrance, medicine and dyes next week. The event will be part of the hobby show at Municipal Auditorium, and is scheduled for 1 to 9 p.m., Thursday through Sunday.

THE LOS ANGELES STATE and County Arboretum in Arcadia will be the scene of one of the largest orchid shows in the country March 13, 14 and 15 when 10 of the top orchid societies in Southern California present the 1970 Southland Orchid Show.

Walter J. Rybaczyk, show president, says more than $200,000 worth of orchid plants will be on display during the three-day event. Each of the sponsoring societies will compete for the Show Trophy with exhibits designed around the show theme, "Orchids, the Royal Family."

The major exhibits will be held in the Arboretum Lecture Hall and in an 80 x 20-foot tent set up on the grounds for the show. A number of small greenhouses will be brought in to house special displays.

Hours for the show are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 9 to 5 Sunday. Admission is free.

Those wishing information on exhibit rules and requirements should write Ernest Hetherington, Box 307, San Gabriel, 91778, or call (213) 287-8974 and (213) 283-4590.

Soul Picnic Gets $300 for Center

Scores turned out Friday afternoon for a "stone soul picnic" at the Family Service Center, 2029 Atlantic Ave., producing more than $300 as a starter fund for a truck for the center.

Volunteers prepared the food for the picnic, including fried chicken, barbecued chicken and ribs, potato salad, greens, muffins and sweet potato pie.

The event, from noon until 5 p.m., was scheduled by the center to raise money for a truck, vitally needed by the center to pick up donations and then deliver them to needy families in the city's depressed areas.

Marion Brown, director of Family Service Center, said the response was gratifying and added that it would make a healthy start on the truck fund.

SOLUTION FOR SMALL LOTS

Planner Suggests Carports

Requiring regular garages for small residential lots might be unreasonable, and carports might be a more practical solution.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. said Friday. Mayer's comments came as the Planning Commission discussed an application from Charles A. Morse, 32 Neapolitan Lane West, for permission to use two covered parking spaces instead of the required double garage.

Morse explained he acquired the property last April and is in the process of remodeling and upgrading it. The present garage is unusable, he said, and the size of the lot makes it impractical to build a new double garage large enough for modern vehicles.

Mayer warned commissioners that if they determine that open carports are preferable to a regular garage on Morse's lot, they, in fact, would be making a ruling for the entire area.

"I'm not suggesting that this is necessarily bad," Mayer added.

Mayer pointed out that the 30-foot-wide lots, which are common in Naples and Belmont Shore, are "not really convenient for anything."

Commissioner Donald W. Phillips said it's a matter of "being practical."

"IF WE force this man to build a structure he isn't going to use, that isn't going to do us any good," Phillips said.

Mayer reminded commissioners that the Planning Department is preparing a new zoning ordinance for the city, and would study the use of carports for small lots.

Planners OK Building

A special permit for construction of a 6-story, 270-bed residential care facility for the aged, at 4019 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., was approved Friday by the Planning Commission.

Commissioners acted after being assured that vehicular access will be to the rear of the building, and that parking will be prohibited on Pacific Coast Highway in front of the facility.

THE APPLICATION, by Doctor's Convalescent Hospital of Long Beach, originally was heard by the Planning Commission on Feb. 19, but commissioners expressed concern that the operation would create traffic hazards on Pacific Coast Highway.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. told the commission Friday that the revised plans increase off-street parking from 54 to 79 spaces, provide for access from the rear of the building and eliminate access from the street to the four shops along the front of the building.

The shops, which will be limited to services such as barber shop, beauty shop and gift shop, will be reached only from a corridor leading from the lobby, Mayer said.

Residents along Mendez Street had objected to the facility, both because of parking problems and because of a hospital being established in an R-4 residential zone.

THE PROPOSED residential care facility actually will be built partly in the R-4 zone and partly in a C-1 commercial zone.

"These people certainly do have the right to use their property," said Commissioner Donald W. Phillips, "and there are a lot of less desirable things that could be placed in the C-1 zone."

ABOUT MONEY

Dr. Chet Castellaw, who gave up a career as a Hollywood comedy writer to become a minister and counselor, and is now pastor of First Church of Religious Science in San Diego, will speak Sunday, 11 a.m. in Church of Religious Science International, 1309 E. Third St. His topic: "A Few Kind Words About Money."

Witness Leader Visiting Area

Leland G. Erskine of New York, circuit minister serving 18 local congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses, accompanied by his wife Shirley, will visit the Long Beach Bixby congregation during the week of March 3 through 8, according to Anthony Kovacs, presiding minister.

Special activity in ministerial training will be led by Erskine, assisting local members to promote a better understanding of God's Word, and assisting householders to see that the real solution to the troubles confronting mankind today is to be found only in the Bible.

BRIEFLY...

Welcome, Young Ladies! 'Chips' Award, Holy Land

Welcome to the 1,000 teen-age girls and young women of the Southern California Fellowship Guild, an unusual Baptist organization formed in 1915, which has adapted steadily to changing times while keeping its Christ-centered focus. They are meeting at our handsome First Baptist Church at 10th and Pine, about which the very same observation might be made, through Sunday night. You may see some of the young ladies touring the harbor area today on the Queen Mary English buses.

"GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS" has won the motion picture of the year award of the Southland Council of Churches, through the Radio, TV and Film Commission. Presentation of the award will be made by Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy at the third annual awards banquet Tuesday night.

The television award goes to the National Educational Television Network for its much talked about "Sesame Street," a children's series seen on Channel 28 three times a day Monday through Friday. From what mothers have said about this delightful program, "parents" who let their small fry watch any old junk while ignoring such a program have to be pretty stupid.

The radio award goes to station KPOL, "for outstanding programming and public service."

servance of Lent on Monday, in preparation for their celebration of Easter on April 26. Protestants and Catholics will have long put away their Easter finery, though hopefully not the meaning of the day. The "twice a year in church" Christians will already be one month on the way to Christmas.

A RADIO MINISTER heard regularly in this area over KGER of Long Beach has been honored by the Award of Merit of the National Religious Broadcasters. John D. Jess, of the Chapel of the Air, heard each weekday at 11:45 a.m., began in 1939 with a 15-minute program heard over a single midwestern station. Today he is heard on a network of stations across the land and overseas. Congratulations, Mr. Jess.

IN ANSWER to a reader question, this scribble's trip to Israel with a group of 35 other American mass media representatives was not a Biblical or historical expedition, but a political, social, military, look, which in an 8-day "instant expert" program, left little time for exploring things of particular interest to a religion writer. Two of us just happened to be religion editors (also Ed Pet-lis of the Shreveport, La. Journal.)

Don't get us wrong, we were fascinated by the Holy Land as the land of the Bible, and will be going back some day in a party of two, instead of 36, at somewhat more financial pain!

But for all you "rich" people, go! It has to be the greatest show on Earth... LES RODNEY

Sees Liberalized

Lutheran Views

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Lutheran Church of America will be asked to adopt more liberal views about sex and marriage, says Rev. Charles B. Bergstrom of Worcester.

Pastor Bergstrom said Wednesday that subjects to be covered at a national biennial conference to be held in Minneapolis in June will include abortion, interracial marriage, birth control, homosexuality, premarital sex, sex education and remarriage.

He said liberal views involving all the subjects, proposed by the national Board of Social Ministry of the Lutheran Church, probably would be accepted by the conference.

Rev. Bergstrom is president of the board.

BIG IN LONDON, CRITICS HERE FLIP

This Swinging Graham Movie in General Run

By LES RODNEY

A Billy Graham movie opening for a week's run in 14 regular Southland theaters, including the Towne in Long Beach starting Wednesday?

Come on, now! Graham movies — and what are called "religious movies" generally — are fine for their purpose, good for showings in churches and to reinforce moral and spiritual conviction. But aren't they a bit too one-dimensional artistically for general audience run? Especially when hoping for an audience mainly from 1970's sophisticated young people?

"I would tend to agree with you — before 'Two A Penny'," replied Ty Curtis, who works as a production coordinator for World Wide Pictures, the Graham organization's movie arm. "This one is different. It is really true to life and it carries its own artistic weight as a good film."

Well, maybe one would figure that Curtis is not the most objective man in the world about "Two A Penny," since he had a hand in the London-made color film. (Though he figures to be honest, being a lay pastor at Grace Methodist Church and soon headed for seminary.)

But there is evidence in his favor. Like the fact that the film, in a rented 400-seat London theater, showed to 22,800 people in a week, and they loved it.

Where it has been shown in other U.S. cities, it has received exciting notices. Like this from the Cincinnati Post Star Times:

"Hang onto your cushioned pews, folks. Billy Graham has come up with a blockbuster in his latest movie 'Two A Penny.' The film contains conflict, sex, irreverence — even some blasphemy. In other words, it's a rather accurate portrayal of the human condition. And it swings... Some of the far side of the Generation Gap are going to leave the theater shaking their heads in bewilderment asking 'What made Billy Graham produce a film like this?' It could be because even Billy Graham knows you have to tell it like it is to hold an audience."

St. Louis Globe-Demo-

ANN HOLLOWAY cautions her screen boyfriend, Cliff Richard, England's leading pop singer, upon his late night entry to her apartment in scene from "Two A Penny," story of the mod generation filmed in London. Billy Graham appears briefly as himself in highly praised film scheduled at Towne Theater in Long Beach starting Wednesday.

erat: "A refreshingly different love story... the photography is super, with fresh-angle shots of familiar London landmarks as well as intriguing glimpses of offbeat byways. Cliff Richards turns in a groovy performance... This one's a winner."

And so on.

Curtis, the Grace Methodist man, put on the world premiere of the film in London after the filming during the summer of '67.

"There were 21 films being made in England that summer," he recalled. "We had to fight for space."

He says Cliff Richard, a popular British pop singer, does a fine acting job, in addition to warbling a flock of tunes (a "Two A Penny" record album hit the top 10 in England.)

Curtis, 37, graduated from Northwestern University as a radio and TV major and worked in advertising in this area as well as doing the publicity for Yamaha motorcycles before. He explains "I accepted Christ through an E. Stanley Jones ashram (a Methodist retreat), and my life changed."

He is chairman of the committee of ministers and laymen for "Two A Penny" in this area. The picture will also screen Fox Theater in Santa Ana and the Fox, Fullerton, simultaneously at the Rolling Hills in Torrance.

He tells some interesting stories about making the picture, including the fact that the film crew was the first ever permitted to shoot scenes inside London's National Art Gallery, in the midst of masterpieces worth millions. They had just two hours of shooting time each day before the Gallery was open to the public, which made things hectic.

"The crew we hired in England was sort of fascinated to be working in a Billy Graham production," he said with a smile. "A couple of times we hit it just right on outdoor locations, with the sun out while we worked, and then the minute we finished it started to drizzle. The crew was sort of spooked by this, they thought maybe we really had a pipeline."

EVANGELICAL ASSN. MEETS IN ANAHEIM

The Southwest Regional Convention of the National Association of Evangelicals (NAE) will be held Monday and Tuesday at Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

In an open session 7:30 Monday night, Dr. Clyde W. Taylor, NAE general director, will speak on "Lifting the Lid on Washington." A Clyde W. Taylor Appreciation Banquet Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. will climax the meeting.

The NAE is a loose, voluntary fellowship of evangelical denominations, which reports a membership of two million. Organized in 1942, it represents 38 denominations and many individual churches from other groups.

Special Viet Appeals by World Council

GENEVA — The executive committee of the World Council of Churches, in another plea for peace in Vietnam, also for the first time added a specific appeal to each of "the four parties involved." The appeal:

1. TO THE USA:
To refrain from methods of warfare which by long-term damage to the soil and vegetation further endanger the life of human beings, and from destruction of villages and "search and destroy" missions.
2. TO SOUTH VIETNAM:
To provide immediately for fuller political and religious freedom and ensure that prisoners are treated with due regard to internationally established standards.
3. TO THE PROVISIONAL REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT:
To refrain from acts of reprisal and bombing against civilian population.
4. TO THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM:
To release lists of U.S. and Allied prisoners and show to the satisfaction of world conscience that it acts towards them in accordance with international standards of humanitarian law.

CRUCIAL COCU MEET IN ST. LOUIS

Protestant Unity Plan Is On Line

Protestant representatives, who for eight years have been talking about unity nine American denominations, with membership of some 25 million, next week come down to cases.

For the first time, they have a specific proposed plan of union to act on — to amend, endorse or throw out. The question is — has the steam gone out of the move, or do they really mean it?

Rev. Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr., of Princeton, N.J., general secretary of the Consultation on Church Union terms the effort at unification "one of the most crucial developments in 20th century church history."

Its outcome, he says, may largely determine whether the coming generation will sustain the church at all as an organized community.

"The key issue which faces Christian and American culture," he says, "is not whether our children believe a particular denominational confession but whether in the future they will believe any confession."

UNDER THOSE circumstances, he says, the fundamental objective of the quest for union is not just to merge organizations by "rearranging ecclesiastical furniture" but to provide means for releasing new energies to revitalize church life.

And that's what the proposed plan being submitted to the March 9-13 consultation in St. Louis seeks to do, says Rev. Dr. William A. Benfield Jr., of Charleston, W. Va., chairman of the committee that drafted the plan.

He says it attempts to provide a "structure which will enable the church to spring loose from antique practices" and draw fresh energies into its task of carrying on the mission given it by Christ.

"Real renewal will not come unless the church is free from some of the present-day power centers and domination by the clergy," he says.

In that connection, he notes, the proposed plan gives increased prerogatives to lay members, requiring among other things that they have a two-to-one majority in church decision-making bodies, from local to national levels.

Other features, such as proposed mutual-interest "task forces" operating within each clustered "parish" of several congregations, also are part of an effort to recapture "the New Testament concept of the ministry of the laity," he said.

THE 10 denominations involved are the Episcopal, United Methodist, Presbyterian U.S. southern, Christian Disciples churches, the United Church of Christ, and three predominantly black communions, the Christian Methodist Episcopal, the African Methodist Episcopal and the African Methodist Episcopal Zion churches.

The meeting will have before it a plan of union which covers every aspect of the proposed new church from its attitude toward the Bible to the details of its internal structure and government.

Since most of the plan already has been approved piecemeal at previous meetings, it has a good chance of winning formal adoption by COCU before the St. Louis meeting ends next Friday.

But that would be only the first — and easiest — step on the road to merger. The plan would then be submitted to each of the nine denominations for discussion and action by their national governing bodies and, if required under the denomination's rules, by regional or local subdivisions. Each denomination would be free to accept the plan as is, approve it with modifications, or reject it outright.

Although no timetable has been set for this process, COCU officials say it may take most of the decade of the 1970s to complete it. There is no guarantee it ever will be completed. The popular enthusiasm which greeted the Blake proposal in 1960 has waned during the long years of tinkering with organizational details.

THE UNION plan will encounter opposition from widely diverse groups for widely diverse reasons:

FROM THE PULPIT

What is truth? Pilate asked the question of Jesus. We ask it today. We want to be free and Jesus said that the truth would make us free.

Is truth pornography? Why do we tolerate this vulgar teaching and teachers in our State schools? Are we so far gone that these depraved persons can riot and protest against decency and we cannot even get a hearing against it in this?

Where in the world are decent people going to educate their children if we do not come to our senses in this matter. One of the two professors responsible for the disgraceful display of nudity in the college classroom at Long Beach State testified that he was raised in the Church, but his months at Long Beach State destroyed any religious convictions that he ever had.

What a testimony! Who wants to send a child to such an institution? Or worse still, who wants to pay taxes to pay salaries of professors whose depraved minds are bent on destruction of Christianity, morality and democracy.

Every concerned person should rise up in protest to our schools, to our Congressmen and to the Governor's office. And above all, the Church should speak out. Too long now we have been silent.

Come to Calvary! There are still those who have not bowed the knee to Baal. We are not "witch-hunters," but we recognize the enemy of our society. And we protest, faith and pornography in our state supported schools.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Turning Failure Into Success

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Here is a suggested experiment. Take pencil and paper and list your three chief failure areas. Perhaps there are three points at which you are currently failing, or at least not doing as well as you desire. It may be that you don't get along too well with other people. Could be you are having trouble controlling desire for alcohol, tobacco, or too much fattening food. Maybe you simply can't seem to master efficiency. Perhaps you are easily discouraged, or feel negative about your future. Whatever they are, big or little, list your failure areas in the order of their importance.

Now, let's see what you can do about turning these failures into successes. The first thing is to get an answer to that big basic question: Why do you have these failure points?

THIS COULD be difficult to determine and professional help may be required; to ferret out the real reasons for your failure. But actually, most often, the place to look is within yourself — and here we come upon some strange and complex facts. For one thing, psychologists tell us that there is even such a quirk as a failure wish. Success, for some psychological reason, seems too dangerous for many people. They cleverly find ways to avoid it, unconsciously, of course. They don't really want to succeed. So when you give the reason for your failure, be sure it's the true reason.

On an airplane one day, flying between New York and Atlanta, a young salesman was sitting beside me. We started talking, and it soon came out that things were going badly for him. For some reason he really opened up and enumerated a series of personal failure points. It was evident that his mind had accepted the idea that he just didn't have the qualifications of a real salesman. In fact, it seemed that his subconscious mind was determined to fail no matter what his opportunities might be.

But when we got to the bottom of his deep inferiorities, I had the distinct impression that this man could succeed if he really desired success. I knew that if he had a few successes it would whet his appetite for more. So I encouraged him to try a formula which others had used with good effect. "All you need to do," I said, "is to try and think and believe. And while you are doing that forget yourself and work, really work."

Guess I was extra persuasive that day for he went for the formula. Result? He is now one of the best producers in his line.

So if you really want to do something about correcting your failures, try this three-point formula: Try, really try! Think, really think! Believe, really believe!

Take that first point, try, really try. Trying can be very hard, so hard in fact, that few people will actually attempt it. Or they may attempt it, but they don't have what it takes to keep on trying. Let's face it, when was the last time you tackled one of the failures on your list with the determined attitude that you were going to get in there and try, really try?

The secret is in putting your whole determination into it. Actually we seldom use our full force, certainly not our full potential. If you focus your whole personality on a difficulty, you'll be astonished at your own power over it.

The second part of the formula is to think, really think — positively. I believe that the power of positive thought is so great Jesuits Charge Brazil Torture

ROME (AP) — Civiltà Cattolica, a leading Jesuit publication which usually reflects Vatican policies, published Thursday what it called a "black book of tortures" in Brazil. It said the reports of tortures of political prisoners in Brazil has "shaken and deeply troubled public opinion."

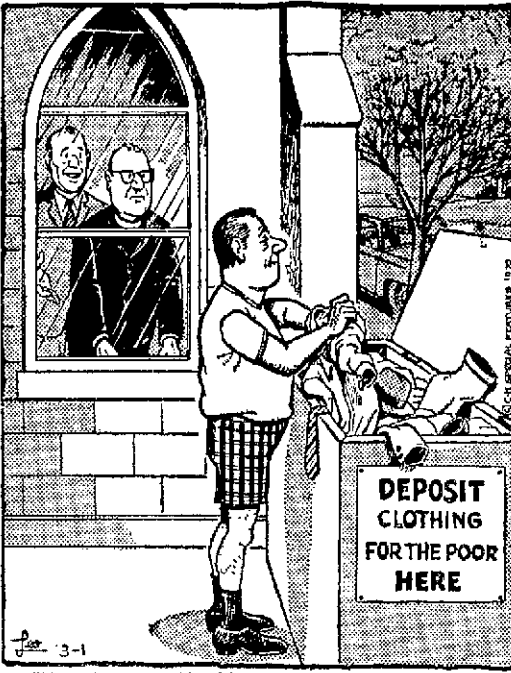

The Jesuit fortnightly carried in detail reports that priests, nuns and Catholic militants have been killed or jailed in Brazil recently.

that you can think yourself through any failure. You can think yourself out of any problem. Thinking produces ideas and it is by means of ideas that men go forward.

AND LAST of all, believe, really believe. Believe in yourself. Believe that you are going to be victorious and that very belief will go far toward bringing you the victory you believe in. You can, if you believe you can. Believing opens the channels of creative dynamic good. It sets in motion creative powers that find solutions in even the most difficult circumstances.

So take another look at your failure list in the light of these three principles: Try, really try; think, really think; believe, really believe. Put these powerful principles to work on your failures, and they can be overcome. As you work with positive and creative ideas, you can so develop yourself that there will be no more failure for you.

CHURCH HUMOR

"Most effective clothing-drive sermon you ever gave, I'd say!"

Liberals fear the union issue may distract churches from more urgent social problems. Traditionalists fear any change in familiar ways of doing things. Some blacks are afraid they would be swallowed up in a white-run church.

Primate En Route

LONDON (AP) — The primate of the Church of England flew to New York Friday for a joint appearance next week with the Roman Catholic primate of Belgium before bishops of the Episcopal Church.

Some whites are put off by the announced plan to choose a black bishop as the first head of the new church.

It seems probable that opposition will be sufficient to bring about rejection of the union plan in some of the nine denominations. But the others may decide to go ahead on their own. And if they do, the St. Louis meeting will be an important date in church history.

A Lutheran Mag Argues in Favor of Reparations

American Lutheranism has been urged to meet Black demands for reparations of $50 million as its response to "this modern call for repentance of the sins of racism."

In a lead editorial, Lutheran Forum, an independent monthly magazine, said the main problem within the churches "is taking seriously the Gospel's call to repentance and faith active in love."

"The hang-up for Lutherans," the Forum added, "centers on the idea of reparations itself. We have twisted our evangelical theology of free grace, forgiveness of sins and Christ alone to the exclusion of corporate responsibility, true contrition and amendment of life. Hence we have been caught off guard by the rhetoric of reparations."

"The confusion seems to hinge on the inability of many Lutherans to distinguish between the once-for-all character of Christ's act of atonement, whereby man's guilt and sin is forgiven, and the daily contrition, repentance, coming forth and rising to a new life on the part of man which should result in healing injured persons, reconciling broken relationships and repaying what is owed to fellow men."

Stating flatly that

"Black people have been wronged," the Forum said that "payment of reparations is one means of healing the damage that has been done to them, inasmuch as we have already through Christ been offered forgiveness for these sins."

GOINGS ON

An unusual choir from the Mounds-Midway School of Nursing of St. Paul, Minn., on a spring tour, will appear Sunday, 7 p.m. in First Baptist, 10th and Pine, featuring the "new sound" of amplified guitars and drums, and a repertoire which is said to "communicate the eternal truth of the Christian gospel in a media best understood by today's youth". The girls' repertoire ranges from contemporary through classic and operatic... Tom Wade, popular family counselor and psychologist, returns to Lakewood First Presbyterian, 3555 Sludobaker Road, Sunday 6:30 p.m., with the theme "Love Must Be Spoken Too". The hour-long color film on Israel "His Land" by Billy Graham's World Wide Pictures will be shown Sunday, 1:15 p.m. in Grace Methodist, Third and Junipero, following a 12:15 p.m. potluck luncheon honoring area servicemen. Public invited.

The Vanguard Chorale of Southern California College (Costa Mesa) will present a variety of sacred music Sunday 10:15 a.m. in Glad Tidings Assembly of God, 1900 South St. The Sparrows, youth group which has appeared here, are back in concert Friday, 7:30 p.m. in Calvary Assembly of Lomita, 25501 Oak St. A "Cheer Visitation Workshop" by the Lutheran Social Services (all Synods) will be presented Monday from 9 a.m. to noon at Holy Cross Lutheran, 4221 Cerritos Ave., Los Alamitos. The second annual Missions Conference of Central Baptist of Orange County, 227 N. Magnolia Ave., Anaheim, will be held Sunday through Mar. 15th. Rev. Benjamin W. Johnson, who spent four months in Africa studying demonology and spiritualism among primitive people, will speak Sunday, 7:15 p.m. in Bethel Reformed of Bellflower, 10012 Ramona St.

Today's Eclipse Last Until 2024

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

If you don't catch the eclipse today, you won't get another chance to see one of this magnitude in the U.S. until the year 2024.

The three networks will be covering the "covering" of the sun by the moon, which in these parts will be seen only partially with the naked eyes — which, viewers are warned, should be protected by viewing through extremely dark filters—if you're watching direct.

But, on TV, you'll see the solar eclipse in full glory and without worry about eye damage from the sun.

NBC (Ch. 4) has sent a crew down to Miahauhtlan, a small village in the southern coastal part of Mexico, where the first view of totality of the eclipse will be visible for about 3 minutes and 31 seconds—about 20 seconds longer than any place in the U.S., scientists say.
Broadcast period is from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

CBS (Ch. 2) plans to cover the eclipse from an airplane flying 40,000 feet
United States, following the eclipse along part of its path up the East Coast of the U.S. Broadcast period is from 10 to 11 a.m.

FOR THOSE of you interested in how CBS goes about this, the network explains:

"... By chasing the moon as it passes across the sun's face we hope to be able to extend the period of totality to four and one-half minutes, rather than the three minutes experience by the observer on earth.

"The color television camera in the plane will be equipped with a solar optical lens system... developed to capture the corona, the brilliant red ring around the sun, and the illuminated moon during the minutes of totality.

This project is being conducted in conjunction with ABC News (Ch. 7) which will air its show starting at 10 a.m.

Ch. 11 will be broadcasting the Dodgers-Braves baseball game from Florida, starting with "warm-up" at 10:10 a.m., and you may be able to pick up some play-by-play calls of the eclipse by Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett.

ANATOMY'S VIEW ON TV DRAWS SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)
— A woman who claims she was photographed in a "most embarrassing position" filed a $50,000 damage suit Monday against a local television station.

Mrs. Olive Fox, said in the Superior Court suit that a KQED photographer aimed the camera at her from the rear instead of the front and deliberately brought certain portions of her anatomy into clear, distinct and magnified view via a telescopic lens.

Mrs. Fox, who was speaking against a school busing plan, called the 8 to 10 second filming "a shameful technique and uncultured harassment."

She also asked the court to bar KQED from ever showing the film again. A station spokesman said the telecast was live, and no tape was made of it for future showings.

BATTLE OF CENTERS KEY TO 49ER-WEBER WAR

By JIM MCCORMACK
Staff Writer

PROVO, Utah — George Trapp vs. Willie Sojourner—the battle that will decide the war?

Cal State Long Beach coach Jerry Tarkanian believes it and Weber State coach Phil Johnson implies it.

The in-fighting between the two 6-foot-8 junior centers tonight may well determine who wins the first-round NCAA playoff game and advances to a meeting with UCLA on Thursday.

The battle and the war begin tonight at 6 (PST) and a capacity crowd (10,500) in Brigham Young University's fieldhouse will witness it.

Cal State Long Beach fans will be able to hear the game on KNAC-FM (105.5). There is no television.

"If George can neutralize Sojourner," hopes Tarkanian, "I think we have an excellent chance of winning. He is the key to Weber State."

"He is important to us," admits Weber coach Johnson. "Last year we tried to go to Willie and this year we have to. But he isn't the only player we have. We have won games in which Willie got very few points. As few as seven."

"It's like Long Beach. Trapp is their key, but you certainly can't ignore everyone else. That's a good way to get beat-on."

As a sophomore, Sojourner teamed with guards Sessions Harlan and Justin Thigpen to lead the Wildcats to a 27-3 season and third place in the Western Regionals.

Thigpen graduated and the Wildcats haven't been the same.

"We're a much different ball club this year," reports Johnson. "We play the same style of ball but we're not as explosive."

"Justus was the type of player who could break a ball game open. He could drop in three or four long jumpers and make a steal or two and we'd be on our way."

"This club lacks that. When we get into trouble, we have to hound our way out."

TRAPP ALL-COAST

STANFORD (UPI) — Cal State Long Beach center George Trapp and UCLA's Sidney Wicks and John Vallely have been chosen to the all-West Coast all-star team selected by the National Assn. of Basketball Coaches.

Other first team selections were Pacific's Bill Stricker and Santa Clara's Dennis Awrey. Another Bruin, Curtis Rowe, was picked for the second team with USC's Dennis Layton and Iton Riley. USC's Pete Cross and Utah's Mike Newlin.

But, when they've had to, they've been able to do that."

Even when the Wildcats can't hound their way out of trouble, they always manage to keep things close. Five of their six losses this year were by four points or less.

The teams have met only one common opponent — Loyola of L.A. Weber beat Loyola, 87-64; Long Beach topped the Lions, 81-65. Both victories were at home.

Tarkanian will start the same five some that has propelled Cal State to the nation's longest university division win streak — 19 games — and a 24-3 season record, contrasted to Weber's 20-6.

Cal State's guards will be seniors Shawn Johnson and Ray Gritton. Trapp is the center, and Sam Robinson and Billy Jankans the forwards.

17,655 See Laker Title Hope Ruined

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

A record crowd of 17,655 watched the crippled Baltimore Bullets put a crimp in the Lakers' Western Division title hopes Friday night by rallying in the final seven minutes to score a 105-100 victory at the Forum.

The defeat, witnessed by the largest crowd ever to see a pro basketball game in Southern California, dropped the Lakers two games behind Atlanta and probably meant that a sweep of their remaining und-guessed by Erickson, Egan and many of the writers. It was then he should that there would be practice today.

Erickson admitted his disgust at not being used, while Egan, not so angry, tried to analyze the Lakers' problems. He has been saying all season that the team lacks movement on offense that he and Erickson can give them.

"We're better when we're running," little John said calmly. "I think we proved that in January when we won nine in a row."

The Laker offense, for the third successive game, sputtered badly and wasted a fine defensive effort. The number of bad passes was shameful, as was the number of low percentage shots.

Elgin Baylor and Dick Garrett, the players who would be supplanted if Erickson and Egan had their way, did not enjoy quality games. Elgin had 22 points and Garrett 10, but both made costly turnovers and missed clutch shots.

In the closing minutes when West was hot and wanted the ball, Baylor took three shots and made one, Garrett tried two and missed them both.

Mullaney's reason for not using Egan and restricting Erickson to 12 minutes was because of Baltimore's size. In the lexicon of the NBA, neither player "matched up."

"They are too strong, physically, up front for Keith," said Mullaney. Egan and Erickson would answer that by saying matchups didn't mean anything during that January win streak. Baltimore, however, wasn't included that streak and players like Gus Johnson, Ray Scott and Wes Unseld are big and strong.

seven would be needed to overtake the Hawks.

Beaten by a team which used only seven players, the Lakers took the loss harder than any all season. The anger in the dressing room resulted in so many harsh comments that only a computer could record them all.

Coach Joe Mullaney, who rarely gets upset, ordered his team to practice today, but he didn't tell them until he saw what was taking place in the dressing room while the reporters were present.

Most of the writers gathered around Jerry West, Keith Erickson and Johnny Egan. West played his heart out, scoring 35 points, but Egan didn't play at all and Erickson toiled only in the second period.

It was evident to Mullaney that he was being seen-

JOHN WOODEN... And Still No. 1

HAIL WOODEN, COACH OF YEAR

When Lew Alcindor graduated last June, UCLA basketball coach John Wooden faced one of his toughest challenges of his career.

How do you replace a man who three times as an all-America led his club to the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. title?

"In all probability it put more pressure on me in the desire to have a real good year," recalled the 59-year-old Wooden. "It's been a most gratifying year. We have great team play without any one individual star. All have had their moments. We've had fine team balance."

With his balanced team, which includes only one senior, ranked No. 1 nationally, Wooden again Friday was accorded the Associated Press honor as "coach of the year."

He had been accorded the same honor a year ago, and previously in 1964 and 1967. His Bruin teams have captured the national championship in five of the past six seasons — 1964, '65, '67, '68 and '69.

"Going into the NCAA championships, we are experienced. We've had enough tough games to put them through the mill so tough games shouldn't be shocking for us."

"That doesn't mean we can't be beat. Any team left in contention is good enough to beat us. But we know it will take a good team playing very good ball to beat us. We know we're as good as any and better than most."

In the balloting by Associated Press members, Wooden received 164 votes of the 366 cast. Adolph Rupp of Kentucky was second with 69 followed by Frank McGuire of South Carolina with 28. Harv Schmidt of Illinois with 17 and Maury John of Drake with 11.

FIRST REPEAT?

Nodouble Heavy Favorite in 'Cap

No horse has ever won the famed $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap twice, but Nodouble is an overwhelming favorite to succeed today when he heads a field of 12 into the classic race.

Nodouble is listed as an 8-5 favorite to become the first repeat winner of the 1¼-mile race that highlights the winter season in the West. The favorite will carry 130 pounds over the Arcadia track.

In posting Nodouble as the top choice, the track oddsmaker looked at the records which showed that in addition to last year's Santa Anita Handicap, the 5-year-old won five other races with purses of $100,000 or more.

William Haggin Perry's Dewan, surprise winner of the $75,000 San Antonio Handicap two weeks ago, was listed as second choice at 4-1 in the tentative morning line.

The coupled entry of Fignero and Snow Sporting, both imported from South America by Clement Hirsch, were posted at 6-1. Quicken Tree was rated at 8-1 and the odds then soared to 50-1 on Royal Dynasty.

Fignero is closest to Nodouble in the weights with 121 pounds as the star spots his rivals from nine to 19 pounds.

Jorge Tejeira, who rode Nodouble to a stakes record in the San Pasqual Handicap earlier in the meeting, again has the mount on the favorite. Other riding assignments include Alvaro Pineda, listed for both Fignero and Snow Sporting; Bill Shoemaker, Fiddle Isle; Fernando Alvarez, Quicken Tree; Don Pierce, Comtal, and Jerry Lambert, Might.

Others in the race are Royal Dynasty, Field Master, High Tribute and Right Cross.

Last year Nodouble carried 122 pounds to victory in the Santa Anita Handicap as he started a drive at the half-mile pole. By the time he reached the stretch, he was two lengths in front. His time in that running was 2:01½.

In the 32 previous Santa Anitas, only four horses

USC Rattles UCLA's Title Momentum 87-86

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

UCLA coach John Wooden said Thursday he hadn't mentioned USC to his tournament-bound Bruins all week.

So, the unspeakable Trojans came into a haunted house called Pauley Pavilion Friday night and upset the top-ranked Bruins, 87-86, before a stunned gathering of 12,670 fans, most of them from UCLA.

Thus, on the day he was selected coach of the year for the fourth time by The Associated Press, Wooden sustained his second defeat in friendly Pauley in five years and 70 games.

A year ago, USC latched the other Pauley defeat on the Bruins, 46-44, in a stall game.

There was nothing gimmicky about the Trojan victory this time. USC ran with the Bruins, strategy often looked upon as a ghastly mistake.

The Trojans had to make up a 12-point deficit in the second half, including a 66-53 disadvantage with 15 minutes remaining.

UCLA hit a cold spell after running up that lead and went 7 minutes and 11 front the first half. The sophomore from Franklin, N.C., hit seven shots from the outside, none under 17 feet. Steve Patterson made seven of eight.

The Bruins were in front, 51-41, at the intermission and had a 27-16 rebounding edge.

All that changed in the final 15 minutes. Sophomores Paul Westphal and Roe Mackey teamed with Dana Pagett and George Watson in the late going to pull the Trojans even at 83-83, with 2:52 to go.

Mackey swished an 18-footer 36 seconds later to put the Trojans ahead, but Sidney Wicks sliced the lead to one with a free throw with 1:51 remaining.

Watson's free throw put USC up by two, 86-84, with 1:20 left. When the Bruins' John Vallely missed the first shot on a one-and-one free throw situation 18 seconds later, UCLA was dead.

The Trojans ran the clock down until there were only 16 seconds left when UCLA's Curtis Rowe fouled Don Crenshaw of

Millikan Muscles Sunny Hills, 64-47

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

What may be the Southland's best high school defense carried Millikan to a relatively easy 64-47 CIF 4-A quarter-final round victory over Sunny Hills Friday night before a crowd of 6,221 at the Long Beach Arena.

It was the Rams' 26th win of the season against only three setbacks and put the team in Friday's semi-finals at the L.A. Sports Arena against either Santa Barbara or Notre Dame, who play tonight.

The Lancers from Fullerton, who reached the finals last year against Compton, led only 5-4 and again at 11-10.

Smaller Millikan outplayed its taller opponent on the backboards when it counted most and received great play from guards Dan Peters and Tony Martineck.

Peters and Martineck missed only one shot from the perimeter and combined for numerous assists on easy Millikan baskets in the third and fourth quarters.

Bolstered by the inside talents of Richard Plante and Dave Frost, the Rams were able to pull away in the early stages of the final eight minutes.

Trailing by eight points (48-40) going into the last quarter, Sunny Hills resorted to a press, and instead wound up fouling the Rams.

Each team had 21 field goals, but Millikan enjoyed a 17-point advantage at the foul line and missed but five tosses in 27 attempts.

Plante was especially impressive for the third playoff game in a row. The smooth-shooting 6-foot-3 forward hauled down a game-high 13 rebounds in addition to leading all scorers with 18 points.

In all, the Rams placed four men in double figures. Peters tallied 17, Frost 14 and Martineck 12.

Sunny Hills' 1-2 scoring combination of 6-11 Frank Dehn and 6-5 Kim Swaim were held in check as well as at any time this season.

Dehn had 14 — eight under his season average. Swaim scored 12 — seven below his season output. In comparison, Dehn had 34 points in his first two playoffs appearances and Swaim 43.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Palos Verdes needed four free throws in the final 58 seconds.

Week's Wall Street Trend

By HOWARD LUXENBERG

tional lift Thursday when the Bank of England cut its basic interest rate to 7½ per cent from 8 per cent. Trading was moderately active.

On Friday, however, the market was unmoved by a 1½ point boost in the West German Bundesbank's discount rate to 7½ per cent. Later that day, after the market close, Italy's treasury minister ordered a similar hike in the Italian Central Bank discount rate to 5½ per cent. These discount rates correspond to the U.S. Federal Reserve discount rate, currently at 6 per cent.

Although it was apparent Britain's move would have no direct, immediate impact on money rates in the United States, Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co. brokerage, said, "Wall Street interpreted it as confirmation of a trend toward lower interest rates."

"IT WAS FURTHER EVIDENCE that money is no longer being tightened," Lucien Hooper, W. E. Hutton analyst, added.

A number of small U.S. banks already have reduced the prime rate — that charged big corporations — to 8 per cent from an all-time high of 8½ per cent, and investors had hoped that the action by the British might help persuade large U.S. institutions to follow suit.

Fred Ansell, first vice president of Shearson, Hammill, said, "The handwriting is on the wall that major banks will reduce the prime rate," even though they have stated that such action is not yet contemplated.

A. W. Clausen, president of Bank of America of San Francisco, said the prime rate could come down within 60 days, but other bankers were much more cautious. Lief Olsen, senior vice president of First National City Bank, New York, said American interest rate trends will depend chiefly on developments in the U.S. economy.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said he didn't think the British cut would have any effect on this side of the Atlantic, and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York said the move has no direct and immediate relationship to money conditions in this country.

THE UPI MARKETWIDE INDICATOR climbed 0.88 to 95.83. The New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a loss of 6 cents to $50.04 in the average common share price.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, barometer of blue chips, rose 6.53 to 784.12. The DJ transportation average rose 0.20 to 177.86, and utilities 3.26 to 118.51. Standard & Poor's average of 500 stocks dipped 0.06 to 89.44.

Friday's Quotations

Of the 1,763 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange during the week, 976 advanced, and 654 declined. New 1969-70 lows exceeded new highs 58 to 40.

Big Board volume for the week increased to 58,204,85 shares from 48,476,050 shares the previous week, which was shortened to four trading sessions by the Washington's Birthday holiday.

Biggest percentage gain of the week was 29.9 per cent by MEI Corp., up 3¼ to 14½. Western Airlines, up 3¼ to 18½, showed a gain of 20.8 per cent. Biggest losers on a percentage basis were Kresge, off 13 to 44¼, or 22.7 per cent, and Buffalo Forge, off 9½ per cent to 42¾, or 18.5 per cent.

Among the week's most-active issues, 13 declined, and 7 advanced.

Puzzle of Friday, March 6, Solved

DONALD DUCK By Walt Disney

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Saturday

Your birthday today: The coming year will be a time of the need and the opportunity to serve beyond consideration of your own personal welfare. In positive expression, this brings you to deeds which benefit all men.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Companions take the initiative away from you temporarily. If you rely on other people's affairs, your own interests suffer most.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are ready to be helpful but nobody particularly wants your help, especially where it has not been asked for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Business associates are on the move. Sign contracts where you have checked details and found them in order. The temptation is to neglect family, younger people. Suggested invitations may not come to pass.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): People and things from faraway or peculiar places take your interest. Nervous energy tends to make you restless for more stimulus, new experience. Keep social engagements flexible.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Partnerships with strangers are proposed but should be declined. With everybody wanting you to do something special or extreme, it is vital to know what you really want yourself and go directly after it, tactfully but persistently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Pets, friends, neighbors, tradesmen, country boys get into the act so that by the time the day is over, it is a circus.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your struggle to keep everything in balance is tested. Everybody else seems intent on forcing some issue or other. Don't keep overlong hours trying to bring discussions to peaceful closings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Give your main attention to matters where you work with little or no direct collaboration with others. Emotional ties are strained a little, and there's nothing to do but be patient for your part.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Somebody you care for needs inspiration, perhaps help. Social arrangements are subject to changes for no visible cause or because of misunderstandings. Check details in advance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your self-confidence now is the main factor for social and professional success. You can organize all sorts of activities for others and still count yourself in on the fun.

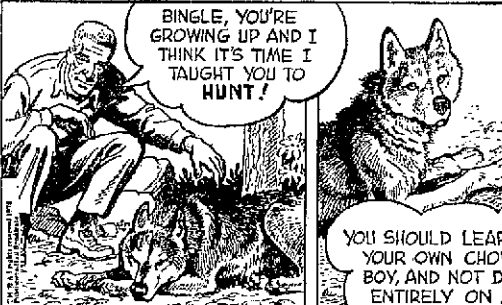

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite much good advice, nothing should be done today to close important deals.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are tempted to be candid with details others may not know so well, thus your risk being taken out of context.

Why Novelist Now Writes for Children

NEW YORK — Why does a famed novelist like Isaac Bashevis Singer turn to writing children's books?

Singer, accepting a National Book Award Wednesday for children's literature, said there were 500 reasons why he did so. He cited 10:

"Number 1 — Children read books, not reviews.

"No. 2 — They don't read to find their identity.

"No. 3 — They don't read to free themselves of guilt, to quench their thirst for rebellion or to get rid of alienation.

"No. 4 — They have no use for psychology.

"No. 5 — They detest sociology.

"Six — They don't try to understand Kafka or 'Finnegan's Wake.'

"Seven — They still believe in God, the family, angels, devils, witches, goblins, logic, clarity, punctuation and other obsolete stuff.

"Eight — They love interesting stories, not commentary, guides or footnotes.

"Nine — When a hook is boring they yawn openly, without any shame or fear of authority.

"Ten — They don't expect their beloved writer to redeem humanity. Young as they are, they know it is not in their power. Only the adults have such childish illusions."

Self-Evident Truths About Film Industry's Predicament

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — So much nonsense has been written and said about the film industry's predicament that it might be wise to establish some truths that should appear self-evident.

The management of Paramount explains in a Life magazine spread why the studio and its equipment are up for sale. One reason given was the greed of stars who demanded huge sums for their services.

NONSENSE. Why blame the stars? They know their earning years are limited and they aim to get all the money they can, while they can.

The fault, dear Bludhorn, lies not in the stars, but in the film companies who submitted to those ridiculous salaries. Paramount was the leader. A year or so ago, the studio proudly gathered for a group photograph those stars it was paying a million dollars per picture: Julie Andrews, John Wayne, Barbra Streisand, Clint Eastwood.

Not only did Paramount burden its films with enormous talent costs. It also allowed the film companies to go off on distant locations and run up ruinous costs through lack of discipline and direction.

To put $50 million in four movies, as Paramount did, is the weirdest kind of economics. The industry rule is that a film must bring in 2 1/2 times its cost before it can show a profit. That means those four films would need to amass $125 million in rentals before seeing black ink. Lots of luck.

PRETTY PRISCILLA KIRK . . . New Huntington Harbor Sign

Sailing Days Insignia Identify Areas of Huntington Harbour

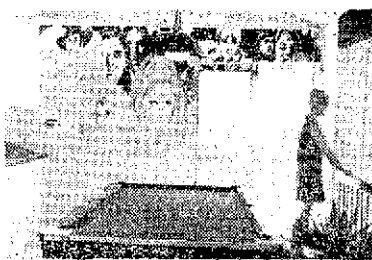

Couch-blowing cherubs, the Old North Wind and other insignia reminiscent of bygone sailing days are classic themes of the new custom-designed location signs at Huntington Harbour.

Each of the four islands in the residential community near Huntington Beach now has its own identity mark, a handcarved and painted design in wood mounted on heavy beams by iron chains.

Directional copy on each sign indicates the viewer is returning from an island to the mainland.

Still a growing community, Huntington Harbour recently opened several new waterfront homes on Humboldt Island.

Nishkian Completes Rancho Los Amigos Twin Tower Plans

Martin A. Nishkian, president of M. A. Nishkian & Company, Long Beach, has announced that schematic plans are complete, for a six-story, twin-tower, $20 million high-rise Stroke Rehabilitation Center and Catastrophic Illness Treatment Center at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital in Downey. The facility is the nation's largest rehabilitation hospital.

The twin towers will be located on the present Rancho Los Amigos Hospital complex, south of Imperial Highway, between Old River School Road and Rives Avenue.

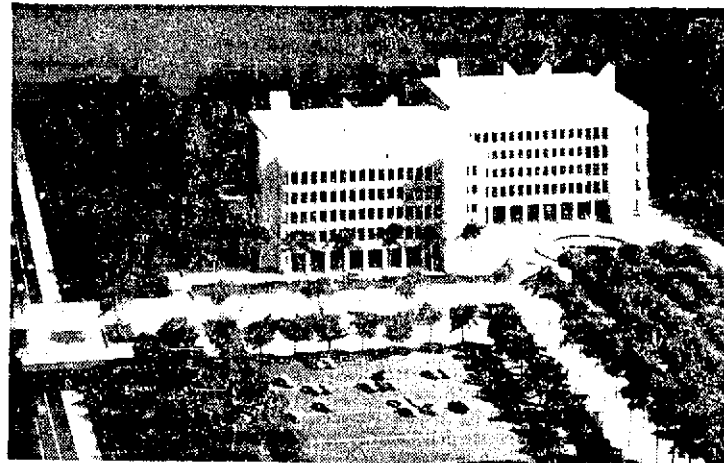

According to Frank G. Bonelli, county supervisor, First District, the project was masterplanned by a joint team headed by Eugene R. Erickson, administrator; Dr. Vernon L. Nickel, medical director, both of Rancho Los Amigos Hospital; Nishkian and Robert T. Haley (AIA), director of architecture for the Nishkian company; the staff of L. S. Hollinger, Los Angeles County chief administrative officer, and John A. Lambie, Los Angeles county engineer.

WORKING with a 40 man Nishkian architectural and engineering staff Haley has planned two six-story towers, with an area of 456,700 square feet for 414 hospital beds.

The Stroke Rehabilitation Center provides three 124 bed nursing floors which have the capability of producing a continuum of 124 beds, or the flexibility of providing 30 to 32 bed isolated care units, each with the required ancillary support functions, special procedure rooms, nurses' stations and interchange control centers.

The Catastrophic Illness Treatment Center tower will have six 30-bed units for patients with severe chronic disabilities such as major burns, chronic infections, chronic renal disorders, crippling arthritis and crippling heart diseases.

The new structure will include a Neuro Radiology Center, a Center for Renal

from acute arthritis to osteomyeloma.

A THREE-STORY unit, consisting of a 45,465 square-foot, 30-bed replacement pre-operative and post-operative care unit, also will be built as an addition to the existing Medical Services Building.

It will include in-patient and out-patient clinic functions for dental, eye and orthotics.

FOR SANTA ANA OFFICE

Signal-Landmark Names Four

Signal-Landmark, Inc., recently formed subsidiary of the Signal Companies, Inc. of Los Angeles, has announced the appointments of several officers within its executive staff in the Santa Ana office.

Announcement was made by James K. Wootan, president of Signal Properties, also a subsidiary of the Signal Companies.

Named to posts as vice presidents were Robert R. James and Warren Gummere.

James will direct Signal-Landmark's marketing and sales while Gummere will be in charge of the corporation's finance department.

ALSO NAMED to vice president posts were Fred E. Webber, engineering and planning; Fred C. Ropke, purchasing, and Arch M. Sellery, mobile homes and multiple residential development.

Wootan included in the promotions Lewis S. Akerman, Jr., vice president in charge of investment planning and Randy Burke to head the industrial development department.

Signal-Landmark was formed last December in a merger that joined Shattuck & McLone Enterprises with Signal Properties.

Co-founders William N. Shattuck and Donald C. McLone of Shattuck & McLone Enterprises will serve as chairman of the board and president, respectively, of the new subsidiary.

IN 1968, the Shattuck & McLone development firm recorded gross sales in excess of $22 million, and increased that total to approximately $35 million in 1969.

The company is engaged on the areas of financing, design, subdivision, construction and marketing of residential and multi-family developments, industrial complexes and mobile homes.

WOOTAN reported that projects currently being developed by Signal-Landmark, Inc., are located in Northridge, La Palma, Huntington Beach, Cerritos, Orange and the Westlake community at Westlake.

He added that the acquisition of Shattuck &

McLone will complement Signal Properties, Inc., in the development of its land holdings in California, Texas and Hawaii.

MODEL TOURS BEGIN TODAY

Five Builders in Alliance to Develop Villa Park

Five established builder-developers — each with distinct real estate projects underway — have formed an association to promote the city of Villa Park as a rural-like estate community.

They are inaugurating a "Countryside Estate Tour" of 18 model homes this weekend.

Formation of the tour, a cooperative advertising and public relations program and the proposed construction of permanent city entrance signs are included in the initial plans of the ambitious five-developer project.

Pooling their finances, drawing and promotion efforts in the campaign are Jerry Lewis of G. L. Lewis Enterprises, Inc.; Chuck and Ed Smyth of Smyth Bros., Inc.; Norman Burnham of Burnham Building Co.; James Butler and Edward Nahigan of Nahigan-Butler Development Co.; and Jerry Weinberg of Space Environment Corp.

"IT IS UNUSUAL when five different developers unite to promote a community," noted Burnham. "We feel strongly that a united effort will illustrate the responsibility that we have built into the city of Villa Park's homes."

The tour of model homes will be marked by distinctive directional signs throughout the city.

Immediately after leaving the Newport Freeway at Katella Avenue, prospective homebuyers will be directed to the new home tour, according to Lewis, sign chairman.

Home developments qualifying for the tour are Colony Ridge, Le Veta Woods, Southpoint, Patriotic Villa Park and Buena Vista Estates.

At each model complex, visitors will receive a leaflet containing information on all five developments and a Countryside Estate Tour map.

"VILLA PARK is a unique city because it is tucked away and surrounded by hills and other communities," said Ed Smyth of La Veta Woods.

"Its neighborhoods are well worth living in and its citizens are dedicated to making it a responsible community."

Villa Park homes range in price from $15,000 to $75,000 and prestigious residences are available in more than 50 different exteriors, 18 distinctive floor plans and a variety of roofstyles.

Most dwellings are situated on half-acre lots and a minimum land area of 20,000 square feet.

Three, four and five-bedroom homes are being offered by the developers in a wide variety of one and two-story models. Many floor plans in Villa Park feature wet bars, floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, plush carpeting, cathedral ceilings, spacious breakfast nooks, formal dining rooms, double sliding glass doors and inside laundry rooms.

LARGE wardrobes, light and airy California kitchens, pass-through serving counters and double-arm-width door passages are among the spacious highlights of these countryside estates.

All homes in Villa Park feature two or three baths, many with sunken tubs and carefully detailed ceramic tiling.

MWD Fights Back at 'Irresponsible' Project Attacks

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Spokesmen in a wide range of fields are enjoying the use of a new word: ecology.

No group, however, has latched onto the word with more tenaciousness than those opposing the State Water Project (the delivery of water to the Southland from Northern California.)

While its opponents are capitalizing on ecology, the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California is resorting to a few well chosen words itself.

Its words signal an all-out campaign to rebut the attackers of the project.

In a strong resolution authorized by its directors, MWD terms construction of the proposed Peripheral Canal "essential" in order to supply sufficient water for the Southland's future needs.

Simultaneously, the district criticizes "a few self-appointed saviors of the delta who apparently believe there is some temporary political advantage in blind opposition to the canal."

"These irresponsible attacks," the resolution continues, "have reached such proportions that the widest public attention must be called to the immense benefits the canal will provide for Central and Southern California and also the delta itself."

MWD Uses 'Ecology' Too

The 43-mile canal would divert water from the Sacramento River around the delta of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers to the pumping plants of the State Water Project and the federal government's Central Valley Project near Tracy.

MWD board members draw on the word, ecology, themselves.

"The canal will protect and improve the environment and ecology of the delta."

Objectors have branded the canal as a "vehicle designed to dry up the delta, to create an environmental disaster in Northern California and to turn the delta and San Francisco Bay into a salt water cesspool."

"It will do none of those things," MWD directors declare. "A study shows it will do just the opposite."

First, the proposed canal would be more than a ditch taking water from one point to another. It would be a complex engineering works including a canal, pumps, siphons and release gates and recreational facilities extending from Hood to Tracy.

L.B. Board Agrees

The idea is to carry fresh water around the delta (thus a peripheral canal) to keep it separate from the salt water which is sent up from the bay by the tides.

All of the water, MWD spokesmen emphasize, would — by law — be surplus to Northern California needs.

"The truth is," the MWD resolution states, "that in 1990, when the maximum amounts of state project water . . . will be exported to Southern California, the net central basin depletion at the delta . . . will be less than 10 per cent of the total water from the Sacramento and San Joaquin river systems."

MWD is calling upon supervisors, city councils, water agencies, Chambers of Commerce, labor unions and other civic groups within the district to pass resolutions supporting the canal and send copies to Governor Reagan.

The Long Beach Board of Water Commissioners has done just that — and other groups are expected to follow.

More Telephones Here

Long Beach has more telephones than the entire countries of Ireland, Peru or the Philippines.

The Long Beach exchange, with 238,966 phones, averages about 64 telephones for each 100 persons in the area, according to John Sonneborn, South Bay district manager of Pacific Telephone.

The number of telephones in the world, Sonneborn said, jumped to nearly 238 million, a six per cent increase over the previous year.

The United States leads all the other countries with 109.2 million phones. Japan is second with 20.5 million, and the United Kingdom ranks third with 12.9 million.

Another Insurance Hike

Here's a development to watch: State Farm Mutual, one of the nation's largest auto insurers, has announced it has placed a surcharge of 25 per cent on insurance rates for 1970 model "high performance" or "muscle" cars.

SQUEEZE ON GLASS

What would have been shattering experience a few years ago is but a soft touch now for Bill Lampathakis, project leader in Goodyear's Chemical Division. Shatterproof plastic bottles are replacing glass and Goodyear figures more than five billion plastic bottles will be produced in 1970.

The surcharge will apply to premiums for bodily injury and property damage liability, medical payments and comprehensive and collision coverages. A State Farm spokesman said state insurance departments throughout the country have been notified of the company's intention with the March 1 effective date requested.

He said the criteria used to determine "high performance" pertain to the car's capacity to accelerate. Such data is readily available for 1970 model domestic autos, he said.

For the purpose of classifying such cars, the following criteria were used:

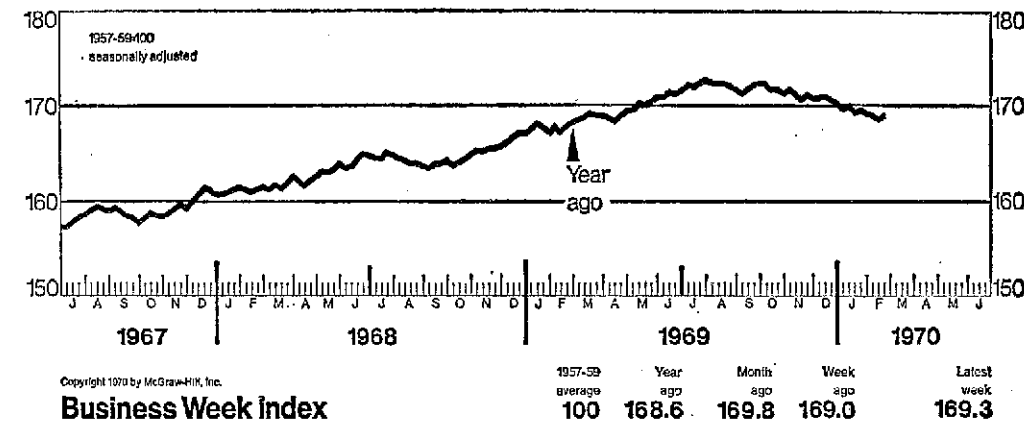

One in which the weight-to-horsepower ratio is less than 11. This is the curb weight of the car in pounds divided by the engine's advertised brake horsepower.

One in which the horsepower-to-displacement ratio is greater than 8 to 10.

A car meeting these stipulations will accelerate from 0 to 60 miles per hour in less than the 8-second minimum generally accepted as denoting a high performance car, the spokesman said.

Although their criteria for determining "high performance" vehicles vary, other insurers have already installed surcharges for many "muscle" passenger cars.

Actuarial studies on 400,000 cars in 20 states over a 3-year period showed that such high-powered cars were involved in insurance losses that averaged 56 per cent higher than the losses caused by standard-powered vehicles. Collision claims for these cars were 50 per cent higher and comprehensive claims 117 per cent higher than the average standard-car claim.

Index Reflects Gains in Steel, Autos

The Index inched 0.2 per cent ahead in the current week, reflecting gains in steel and auto production.

Auto output jumped 49.7 per cent above a week ago. The gain was due in part to a temporary return to normal production for General Motors. The upswing promised to be shortlived, however, as General Motors, Ford and Chrysler announced plans to stiffen production cutbacks to reduce inventories.

Steel output registered an 0.2 per cent rise; until auto sales begin to pick up the slump in steel orders is expected to continue.

Crude oil refinery runs were down 1.6 per cent, and electric power output fell 0.8 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings—down 6.8 per cent from a year ago, lost 5.0 per cent in the current week, responding to a slowdown in motor vehicles and equipment loadings. All other carloadings increased 6.4 per cent, reflecting increases in grain and forest products shipments.

Inter-city truck tonnage was 4.2 per cent down from last week.

Paperboard production slipped 1.8 per cent in the current week — a 10.5 per cent drop compared to a month ago.

AT PIER J

Toyota Opens L.B. Port Facility

Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., became an official tenant of the Port of Long Beach's Pier "J" facility this week following grand opening ceremonies presided over by Shoji Hattori, executive vice president and Toyota's ranking official in the U.S.

Representing Toyota Motor Sales Company, Ltd., of Japan was Y. Ichikawa, member of the board of directors and manager of the Export Administration Division.

The ceremonies kicked-off a 10-year lease agreement signed between Toyota and the Port's Board of Harbor Commissioners last October.

UNDER THE terms of the contract, the Port of Long Beach will provide the use of 21 acres of harbor real estate and the partial funding of a building to house Toyota business offices and service facilities geared to make the imported autos highway-ready.

In presiding over the evening's festivities, Hattori noted that the Pier "J" opening marked the start of an ambitious expansion program soon to affect all ten of Toyota's American ports of entry:

"In order to meet the growing consumer demand for Toyota motor cars in the United States and to afford the over-800 retail Toyota dealers in this country the finest import and distribution network possible, Toyota has embarked upon an expansion program at each of our ten ports of entry."

"The Port of Long Beach has been selected as the pilot port in this expansion program and will serve as the model for our upgrading efforts at the other nine locations."

TOYOTA'S National Marine Operations Manager Bobby Brogotti reports that the new Long Beach administration-service building is the first of several such ports of entry facilities Toyota is planning in this country.

"We are under construction in Portland with a similar building and we are presently negotiating with Houston for construction of yet another," he added.

In order to keep pace with sales growth, Toyota's National Import Manager Hiroshi Inai predicted:

"Toyota will import 210,000 automobiles through its ten U.S. ports of entry this year.

"We will bring 50,000 cars through Long Beach destined for marketing south of the Tehachapi Mountains in California and through all of Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona, Utah and New Mexico."

The Japanese auto manufacturer brought 42,013 cars into the Port of Los Angeles during the past 12 months of Toyota's operations at that facility.

Toyota's other American ports of entry include: San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Houston, New Orleans, Jacksonville, Baltimore, Newark and Boston.

Bullock's, Paine Webber Co-Sponsoring Lectures

A co-sponsored Lecture by Bullock's Department Store, Lakewood, and Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Members of the New York Exchange, on "How to Invest" will be given from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 9, and again the 16th and 23rd.

All lectures are given in the La Gunita Room at Lakewood Center Bullock's Store.

The lectures cover a broad range of investments including stocks, corporate bonds, tax-free bonds and comments on what action the investor should take during the current economic and stock market conditions.

INDIVIDUAL questions will be answered and counseling will be offered by stockbrokers Henry Duke and Richard Cadieu of the Long Beach office of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Topics and dates are as follows:

March 9—"Investing Systematically—A Way to Beat a Bear Market" and "Investing for Capital Gains."

March 16—"The Risk-Reward Theory of Investing for Aggressive Capital Gains."

March 23—"Use Corporate Bonds and Tax-Free Municipal Bonds as part of your 'Balanced Portfolio.'"

Persons interested are urged to call for reservations. Space is limited.

Hansen to Head Buffums'

Buffums' has announced the election of William S. Hansen as president and general manager and his appointment as a member of the board of directors.

Vaile G. Young, chairman of the board and principal executive officer, in announcing this election said this was the first time Buffums' had gone outside the company for a president.

Hansen has devoted his business life to the operation of fashion and service-oriented stores. He most recently was president of Garfinkel's, Washington, D.C.-based department and specialty stores.

Young stated: "I believe this to be a forward step in bringing to Buffums' fast-growing nine-store chain the experience and background to enable us to more fully accomplish the goals which we have set for ourselves."

Buying Power Dwindles

California factory workers ended 1969 with record average weekly pay of $150.66, up 7.64 from a year earlier, but inflation cut their actual buying power below what it was at the end of 1968, the State Department of Industrial Relations reports.

The 5.3 per cent average pay increase was due primarily to wage hikes but a one-tenth hour increase in the average work week to 40.5 hours also contributed, the report said.

Adjustment of gross average weekly earnings for price and tax changes showed a decline from a year ago of 1.3 per cent in purchasing power for the factory worker with three dependents. For the single worker, the decline was 1.2 per cent, the department said.

A new Chrysler 300, reminiscent of the famed Chrysler "letter cars" of the late 1950s and early 1960s has been announced by Chrysler-Plymouth Division.

"The new Chrysler — the 300H — combines the flair of the letter series cars with the distinctive luxury and ride that is inherent in the Chrysler line," Glenn E. White, Chrysler-Plymouth Division general manager, said.

The 300H features distinctive exterior treatment front and rear. It has a specially designed fiber glass power bulge hood with a functional hood scoop and two depressed rotary hood latches. The trunk and rear end caps also have been done in fiber glass to create fast-sweep character lines and a wing-type rear spoiler.

The 300H has been developed in conjunction with Hurst Performance Corporation, which will modify the cars prior to sale. The letter "H" refers to Hurst.

The car is available with a distinctive color scheme — Spinnaker White with Saffin Tan color accents and special striping.

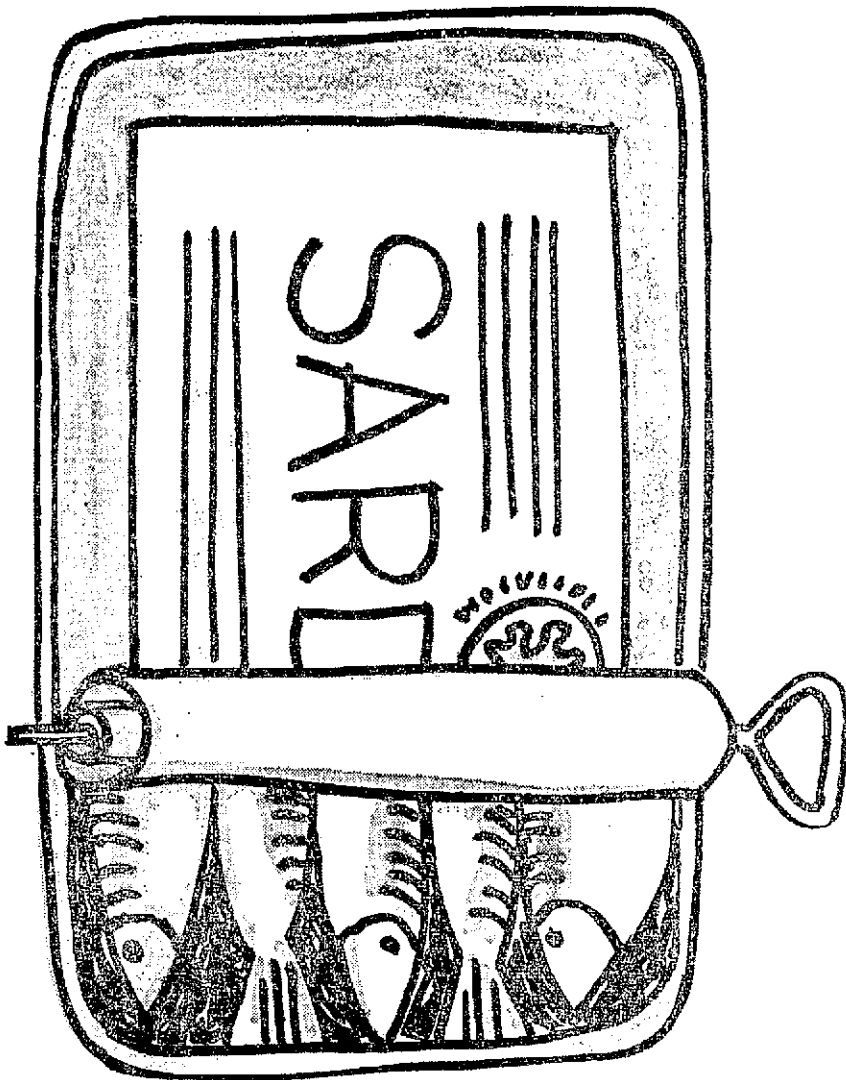

MECHANICALLY, THE 300H follows the tradition of its letter series predecessors. The spirited 440 cubic inch TNT engine is the standard powerplant teamed with a TorqueFlite automatic transmission and a 3.23 rear axle.

The car also features as standard equipment a heavy duty suspension with sway bar, power steering, power disc brakes, styled road wheels and H70x17 white letter fiber glass belted tires.

Power windows, power deck lid release and power seat adjusters also are standard.

The interior of the 300H is rich and luxurious. It has saddle color leather seats with front bucket seats with a pull-down arm rest.

The first of the letter series cars were built in 1955 and the cars continued through 1965. In all, a total of 16,590 of the letter cars were built.

Your landlord loves you. You've been building his bank account since the day you moved in.

You could have been snow-balling your own equity in a new Tempo Starter. This is a big budget-priced home that you can add bedrooms to as you need them.

Smart. Ever try to add a bedroom to an apartment. Or someone else's home.

We've got a Spacemaster, too. This is a big beauty that you can grow into. Not out of. We've left a big space unfinished upstairs. Out of sight. As you get more family or money (or both) you can finish it off. Or we can do it for you now at a very nominal cost.

Come on out today. See how easily you can turn your wasted monthly rent into a secure investment in your family's future.

Builders' Exchange Sets Triple-Header Program

A "triple-header" program is scheduled for members of the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach at their 6 p.m. meeting Monday at Golden Sails Inn.

President Phil Wiedrick and chairman Milton Erickson said Paul Becker, safety engineer from the Long Beach office of the State Comp Fund, will award plaques to members who had no loss-time injuries last year: Grete Company, Paul F. McKenzie Jr., Calvert Heating, Newt Wrench, Carl Brooks and Clarke Plumbing & Heating.

Exchange Manager Jack Horner will report on Construction Employees Legislative Conference — and Concrete Tie will demonstrate latest methods of concrete forming.

Vineyard Merger Dropped

Fidelity Acquires Fishermen

Abandonment of a merger agreement between Pereira - McFadden and Vineyard Advertising Inc., which resulted in creation of Pereira-Vineyard Advertising Inc., in 1969, was announced by William L. Pereira Jr. and Howard Vineyard.

Vineyard will continue to operate the advertising agency under the name Vineyard Advertising Inc. The agency will remain in its present office, 640 S. "B" St., Tustin.

Pereira will continue the operation of Urbanus Publishing Co. Inc., Corona del Mar.

Urbanus Publishing operates a printing service and publishes several magazines, including the Air California and Golden West airline magazines and the Ventura County Business Magazine.

Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association, Glendale, has acquired Fishermen and Merchants Savings and Loan, San Pedro, it was announced by Spencer Scott, Fidelity president.

The acquisition is the fourth for Fidelity Federal within the past three months. It brings Fidelity Federal's assets over the $500 million mark and gives the association a total of eight offices in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has approved the acquisition and it was effective March 1, Scott stated. Terms of the acquisition of shareholder-owned state-chartered San Pedro association were not disclosed.

Oceana Homes Have Good View of Ocean

The latest aerial photo of the entire Oceana community shows the final unit construction activity at the active adult home-site. "More than 100 homes in the 12th unit have combination views of the golf course and ocean," said Morrie Bitter, one of the principals of the Oceanside Land Company, developers of the $20 million planned community above Ocean-

Oceana is geared toward the active adult with a $380,000 central clubhouse with two pools, shuffleboard courts, library, billiard room, card room, lounge and gigantic auditorium, as well as the $150,000 clubhouse addition now well under construction.

"IT'S REALLY KIND of a semi-retirement community," broker Jim Davis is said, validating the statement by saying, "only one of the buying couple must be over 40 years of age and children must be at least 16."

Residents receive a grant deed and own an individual home, he added. Aside from the recreational facilities contained within the development there, is, of course, the ocean and the nation's most comfortable climate.

IN ADDITION, exclusive broker Jim Davis pointed out, Oceana residents have all the protection of the city of Oceanside.

Located in the hills above Oceanside, Oceana is easily accessible by turning east from the San Diego Freeway on Mission Boulevard (Hwy. 76). Continue east, following the Mission San Luis Rey signs to El Camino Real then turn right to the top of the hill and Oceana.

Hooker American in Acquisition of Ceramic

Hooker American, Inc., Los Angeles, has announced acquisition of the Orange County Ceramic Tile Company of Huntington Beach for an undisclosed amount of Hooker American common stock. Hooker will utilize the production facilities in the 38,000-square-foot plant to increase production of Monterey clay brick—a one-half inch thick brick veneer which is now being distributed throughout the U.S., according to President James Hooker.

The Monterey clay brick is employed as a veneer and weighs one-seventh as much as a traditional brick, yet when in place is indistinguishable from the full brick. The product was introduced nationally in January at the National Association of Home Builders Convention in Houston. Monterey brick is currently produced in a Los Angeles plant. The Orange County plant will enable Hooker to triple the output to meet present and anticipated demand.

THE REPORT showed that 83 per cent of the cities surveyed with more than 250,000 population and 63 per cent of the cities with over 50,000 population now have PUD zone ordinances on the books.

An Institute spokesman said the swing to PUD zoning is significant because there seems little doubt that more and more Americans will be living in apartments in the future.

He said the remaining question is whether the apartments of the future will be stark high rises or units which retain the parking space, landscaping and other features of the single family neighborhood.

The Commerce Department reported recently that 45 per cent of the new housing units built in the first 10 months of this year were apartments or other multi-family dwellings. The multi-family share of the market was just 35 per cent two years ago.

URBAN LAND Institute predicts increased use of planned unit development zoning in the suburbs of the future as land becomes more valuable away from the city core.

In addition, the Institute believes that as single-family homes deteriorate in older city neighborhoods, they will be increasingly replaced by apartments. The Institute hopes many of these devel-

Wm. Lyon Co. Using Steel Studding in New Homes

The Wm. Lyon Development Co. will reduce by 50 per cent the amount of lumber normally used in a new 41-house unit at Lyon's California Classics homes in Huntington Beach.

Replacing the wood used for studs will be 20-gauge galvanized steel pre-assembled wall sections.

While steel stud walls are commonly used in high-rise buildings, the technique has not generally been used in single family housing in this country.

Philip Colbourne, vice president of Lyon's purchasing division, says Australian builders actually began the use of steel studs in single family housing years ago, and the industry here is now adapting their innovative use of the material.

Lyon's community will be the first in California to use the steel in this manner.

LYON USED the steel stud technique in a research and development house, in conjunction with Angelus Metals Systems of Los Angeles, at his Belmeadow subdivision in Huntington Beach last October.

The results have been so successful in terms of price advantages to both buyer and builder that the company is planning to make a gradual transition from wood to all steel component housing as quickly as it can in its statewide building programs.

The advantages of the steel components, according to David Langlois, Lyon Huntington Beach area manager, are multiple.

The steel framing maintains its straight and true alignment which eliminates shrinkage, twisting, expansion and contractions; all negative characteristics of wood.

THIS IN turn will drastically reduce or completely eliminate nail pops, separation and cracks in drywall, as well as window sticking.

The hazard of fire is greatly reduced, particularly electrical wall fires, which should in turn give the homeowner a reduced fire insurance cost.

The house will be termite proof because no wood is in contact with the soil or foundation, and the problem of dry rot is totally eliminated.

While the use of the pre-assembled steel stud sections saves an average of three days production time, they do not (at today's lumber prices) effect a cost savings.

"They will, however, represent a considerable savings next spring when stepped up building nationally sends lumber prices spiraling upwards," Colbourne pointed out. "We are able to get firm price protection on steel for twelve months."

TOGETHER with the wall sections, Lyon's California Classics houses will also introduce a new American Standard prefabricated, steel-frame plumbing module.

Completely framed in galvanized steel, the mechanical wall is assembled in the manufacturer's plant (Specialty Products Co., a subsidiary of Service Plumbing Co.) and delivered to the job site where it can be installed at any stage of construction -- a major cost advantage since it eliminates coordination with other construction operations.

Each wall weighs approximately 60 pounds including pipes (water and soil pipes are intact on delivery).

The new wall allows upgrading of plumbing installations in many ways without increasing costs, as for example the new wall-hung water closets usually found only in more expensive homes.

Modules are available for one or two bathroom installation (single or back-to-back), and for shower or tub.

Kitchen and washing facilities may be adapted to either end of the module for further cost reduction. In two story homes, modules are stacked one directly above the other.

LYON'S company, since its merger with American

Standard Inc., has been actively engaged in Research and Development projects throughout the state in an effort to combat rising prices which are eliminating young families from homebuying.

The new unit of California Classics, featuring the steel stud walls, are priced from $24,990 to $28,950 with VA-FHA and Conventional financing available.

The model homes at 5931 Brannen Drive are reached via the San Diego Freeway to the Springdale exit, then south to Brannen.

Program Designed to Help Home Purchases

A statewide program designed to aid prospective home buyers in obtaining facts about purchasing property is being launched in Orange County by First American Title Insurance Company, Santa Ana.

Representatives of the firm are distributing to real estate offices throughout the county a colorful poster containing a pocket for informative pamphlets.

The posters pose the question "Hesitating About That New Home Purchase?" and then announce "Get The Facts."

The literature being provided by First American includes "How to Sell Your House in a Hurry," reprint of a Reader's Digest article; a chart outlining after-tax cost of interest rates; a folder explaining title insurance and escrow procedures; a "Home Buyer's I. Q. Test," containing questions and answers about the intricacies of home buying.

Re-prints of newspaper articles about rising home construction costs in Orange County; a brochure detailing why Abraham Lincoln's family lost three farms due to defective titles; and others.

IN INAUGURATING the program, Regional Vice President James E. O'Keefe noted the need for disseminating such information to the public.

"Many people who are interested in purchasing a home become confused by conflicting stories concerning building costs, interest rates and other conditions. We hope Orange Countians will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn the facts about home buying."

Other First American offices throughout California also are participating in the program, he indicated.

O'Keefe said the material may be obtained from real estate offices or by visiting or writing First American Title Insurance Company, 421 N. Main Street, Santa Ana.

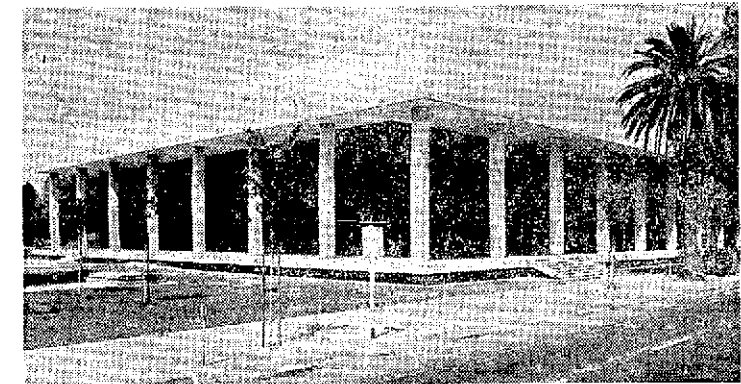

Through its parent firm, The First American Financial Corporation, the local company is Orange County's oldest title insurance establishment, having been formed simultaneously with the county in 1889.

Rubber Empire

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, whose sales approached $3-billion in 1968, got its name from a man who died a pauper.

Charles Goodyear, whose discovery of vulcanization produced the first truly usable rubber, was $200,000 in debt when he died.

One reason for his financial plight was the costly lawsuits that he filed to protect his patent rights. After his death in 1860—33 years before the founding of the company that bears his name—the accumulated royalties from his invention made his family financially secure.

facilities, necessary to support the new Stroke Rehabilitation Center includes supplementing the central steam plant with refrigeration capabilities, utility service tunnels, a pedestrian mall linking the north and south complex, and a mall overpass structure over Imperial Highway.

WITH THIS latter unit to cost $1.9 million and another $4 million slated for expansion of the refrigeration and heating plant, and the bridging of Imperial Highway, the total cost of the new expansion program is expected to be $26.6 million by the 1973 completion.

This latest expansion project is one of many that the Nishkian company has designed at the Downey hospital, world-famed for its rehabilitation work with chronic sufferers of major diseases.

THE NEW Stroke Center has been planned to utilize the latest engineering techniques.

Throughout the twin structure, designed to be joined so that common corridors can be used, new engineering techniques to expedite food, medicine and even patients themselves have been fully utilized.

According to Nishkian, the twin towers will have the most advanced innovations, such as computerized electronic delivery carts which will glide over a thin insulated wire placed over a shallow slot under the floor along the route the cart travels carrying loads up to 900 pounds.

These carts will not only continue to move unattended along corridors, but will also move on and off elevators and stop automatically at pre-selected destinations.

SITE development will include parking for 900 cars, roadways, exterior graphics, lighting, walkways, large patio and mall areas, raised planters, reflecting pools with water sprays, landscaping, and automatic sprinkler systems with electronic controllers to minimize operating costs.

The development will provide a Spanish influence or theme to the complex consistent with Rancho's established policy and existing architectural concepts.

HOLLINGER, Los Angeles County's chief administrative officer, in recommending the entire project to the supervisors, put considerable emphasis on the Imperial Highway bridge.

According to John A. Lambie, county engineer, plans for the proposed overpass bridge over Imperial Highway include the lowering of Imperial Highway between Old River School Road and Rives Avenue.

Patients, employees and relatives using the new overpass structure now bisecting the hospital facility will be transported on a "people mover" system (using a tram or belts).

The overpass structure will be designed to accommodate pedestrians, wheel chair patients and guernsey patients.

M. A. Nishkian & Company has received the 1970 Award for Engineering Excellence from the Consulting Engineers Association of California for design of California's $13 million central heating and cooling plant and distribution system in Sacramento.

The state expects to save $1 million annually in air conditioning and heating costs when the plan reaches maturity. The plant has replaced the former individual centralized heating and cooling systems in each of the old and new buildings surrounding the 95-year-old Capitol.

Mr. Nishkian founded his firm in 1949.

The company has grown to become one of the most versatile planning, design, and engineering firms in the United States.

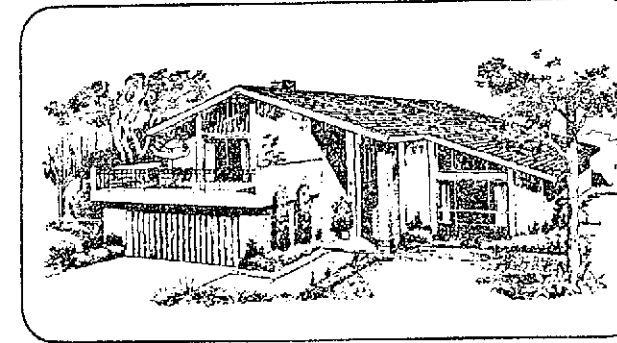

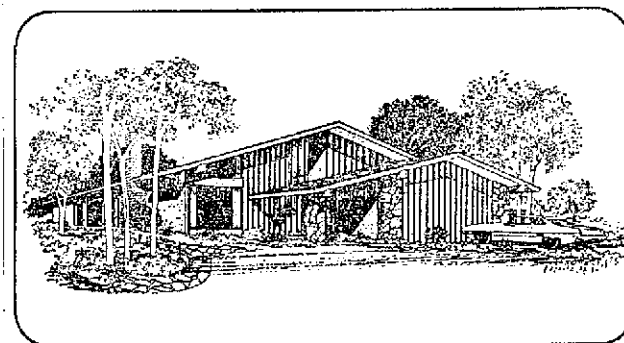

The firm is also the design engineer of the new Magnolia Bridge in Long Beach.

Remodel or Move? Weigh Alternatives

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you've been house hunting recently, you've probably found out the hard way that there's more to finding a home these days than picking the house that fits your tastes and your budget.

Many middle income families have been priced right out of the market as the cost of new and existing houses has climbed steadily.

The average new house price today is close to $30,000 and in some big-city suburban areas it may be pretty difficult to find a house even at that price. In the past year of tight money, housing starts have been cut drastically. Fewer and fewer single family houses are being built. This is driving up the prices on existing houses — often to an unrealistic level for the value offered.

Even if you do find a house in your price range, there's the obstacle of financing. Mortgage money is not easy to come by — and expensive when you do find it; as high as 10 per cent in some area of the country.

EVEN WHERE federal or state law limits the interest rate, charging of "points" — a percentage of the loan for various services — has raised the effective rate. And, more often than not these days, buying a house calls for a substantial cash outlay — a down payment of 25 to 30 per cent; good-sized sums for various closing costs. This is particularly hard on young families who have had little opportunity to build up cash reserves or equity in a house.

As the government has waged a full-scale effort to combat inflation, interest rates generally have risen to the highest level in modern times. The high rates, just as the 1968 income tax surcharge, were intended to discourage unnecessary spending. Instead, people have just stopped saving, and gone right on spending. There still are more borrowers than available money. Demands for business, for personal loans, and for homes simply have outrun the banks' supply of loanable savings deposits. Many full service banks, savings and loan associations and other lenders have only a limited amount for new mortgages. Some have none.

These are the problems, as you know only too well if you have been in the market for a house. The solutions?

THERE IS NO clear cut, easy answer. There are signs the Federal Reserve soon may be able to ease up on the policies of monetary restraint being used in the fight against inflation. The recent increase to 8½ per cent on FHA and VA mortgage loans could improve the supply of funds in some areas.

The general outlook is one of cautious optimism for at least some improvement in the housing and mortgage markets later this year and in 1971 but, for the immediate future, the picture remains grim.

Still, the experts say, homeowners and prospective buyers can take steps to help themselves.

A spokesman for the Foundation for Full Service Banks advises homeowners who are looking for a new house because they need extra space that selling now may not be the answer. You could find that sale "profits" (as high as these might seem) plus savings still might not provide quite enough for a down payment on a larger, much more expensive house, quite probably with a much more expensive mortgage.

IN MANY CASES, he advises, it may be wiser to make improvements to the present home. He says you should have an easier time getting a short term home improvement loan than you would a long term mortgage on a new house.

It is possible still to find existing houses with a low cost mortgage that can be assumed. The problems here, of course, is that a considerable cash investment may be necessary to cover the present owner's equity in the house, and the house may be overpriced because of the favorable mortgage.

It is possible, too, of course, to finance a down payment with a second mortgage. This, however, should be done generally only in special circumstances and always with the most careful consideration and with professional advice. It is expensive and risky in that it may put a severe financial strain on a family and possibly jeopardize its ability to carry the house.

If it is not absolutely necessary that you buy a house now, the Foundation spokesman suggests, it might be wise to wait it out a few more months to see if the fight against inflation works.

IF YOU MUST buy now, perhaps you can downgrade your desires. Some families he said, are turning to mobile homes as a short term answer to their housing needs. For much less than the cost of conventional housing a family can live in its own fully furnished mobile house. These families he said, feel they can sell the mobile unit after the housing situation eases and use that cash plus accumulated savings for a down payment on a more traditional home.

For certain families — generally young families with limited cash reserves but with good monthly income and bright earnings prospects — there is another possibility: private mortgage insurance.

This type of insurance, much like the government-backed FHA and VA mortgage insurance programs, makes it possible for home buyers to purchase homes with limited down payments.

Such plans guarantee a portion of the mortgage, and lenders accept this guarantee in lieu of a portion of the down payment. This makes it possible for a family to buy a house with only 10 per cent cash down.

Casa Bonita Homes Could Appreciate Soon

Families buying homes at Casa Bonita in Cerritos will enjoy many locational conveniences that will cause significant appreciation of home value, builders Henry and Myron Reichert believe.

One of the finest regional shopping centers in the Southland will be close to Casa Bonita Homes.

Sears and Broadway are among the more than 70 stores which are planned.

Aside from the tremendous employment potential, the center will provide approximately one million dollars in tax revenue annually for the Cerritos ABC Unified School District and the City of Cerritos, according to Ernest W. Hahn, representative of the developers.

FAR-SIGHTED planning has resulted in an accelerated program which will accommodate increased educational needs.

One school in the Cerritos district was singled out by the Ladies Home Journal panel of educators as one of the top 10 schools in the country.

Regional parks and playgrounds will provide for family outings and sports activities.

A 7½ per cent annual rate interest package is offered for a limited time.

Information is available at the sales office which will fully explain the Guaranteed HomeTrade program that has been chosen by the builders as protection for the new owner against the expense and inconvenience of waiting for the present home to be sold.

BUYERS have a good choice of four, five and six-bedroom plans with three baths, formal and family dining rooms, large family rooms.

Patio kitchens are fully equipped with electric appliances, gleaming tile counters and handsome cabinets constructed of fine hardwood, with durable furniture finish.

Pantries and utility closets provide generous storage space.

Master suites are sumptuous, with large dressing area, wardrobe closets, compartmented bath, extended marble pullman and king-size shower that will be pleasing to the man of the house.

DECORATOR lighting fixtures and mirrors are included in custom features which contribute to the total home value at Casa Bonita.

Entrance to Casa Bonita is on Artesia Boulevard, just east of 605 Freeway, between Studebaker and Gridley. Furnished models are open daily.

Old Dining Room Comes Out of Limbo

NEW YORK (UPI) — The dining room—virtually extinct only a few years ago—has made a comeback.

Today, the dining room occupies about 142 square feet of space (a room averaging nearly 12 by 12 feet) in approximately 63 per cent of all new single family homes. It accounts for 8.7 per cent of the total cost of the average $28,900 home.

Standard features generally include wood flooring or carpeting rather than tile, at least two windows, and a hanging chandelier with an average price tag of $45.

What's more, the dining room is three times more likely than the living room to be treated with expensive wallpaper and, in 28 per cent of new homes, even includes built-in storage.

THAT'S THE word of people who keep an eye on such things: the marketing experts for B. Brody Seating Co., Chicago manufacturer of dining furniture.

Henry O. Radloff, vice president of Brody's dinette division, said: "There's no question but that the dining room once again is an essential... Homemakers appear to have had enough of dispensing methodical meals in the kitchen or in a tight little island connected to the living room. They want to serve graciously in a separate room designed for the purpose and away from the clutter that's part and parcel of food preparation."

In fact, Radloff said, "today's homemaker is demanding a choice of spaces and places to serve food both formally and informally."

In addition to a dining room, the average home now being built devotes approximately 154 square feet to the kitchen, and 87 per cent of these kitchens are designed to accommodate table seating for at least four people," he said.

GEOGRAPHICAL differences influence both home and dining room design.

For example, the one-story ranch home was an all-out national favorite accounting for 71 per cent of new homes built in 1968. The one marked exception was the Northeast region, where nearly one-third of the best-selling houses were of traditional two-story design.

Sticklers for the classic and the conventional, Radloff said, Northeasterners also built more homes with larger, separate dining rooms than any other region in the nation. Some 76 per cent of all new homes in this area had separate dining rooms that averaged 150 square feet in size.

Separate dining rooms were least popular in the West with only 53 per cent of new homes having this accommodation. Their average size was 128 square feet as opposed to 142 square feet nationally.

WOOD FLOORING was the preference throughout the nation, with the Northeast leading with 78 per cent and the West trailing with 35 per cent, Radloff said.

Conversely, carpeting was first choice for almost half the dining rooms in the West and least favored in the South where a mere 5 per cent furnished with soft floor covering. The use of resilient tile was most predominant in the South but only a third choice nationally.

Whatever new homes in the South lacked in the way of dining room floor glamour, Radloff noted, they made up overhead. Southern builders lit up the dining scene with posh chandeliers costing an average of $53. It's interesting, also to note that 3 per cent of all new southern homes included a

New Building Product Is Home Front Hero

NEW YORK (UPI) — The maintenance free home. This is the goal today and there's a growing list of products designed to help the homeowner have a home that's attractive but requires a minimum effort to keep sparkling and in repair.

Among the more recent of these are the rigid vinyls, available in an ever-increasing variety of sidings, gutters, shutters, and other products.

Around long enough to have proved themselves, the vinyls still are not as well known as some of the aluminum, steel, and coated or aggregate plywood products with which they are competitive.

Answering questions about rigid vinyl George A. Fowles, B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company vice president, says it is "one of the toughest building products available. It can be exposed to sun, wind and temperature extremes for extended periods without fading or deteriorating."

FOWLES, WHOSE company makes the raw materials for the building vinyls, says the color "goes all the way through eliminating all painting, and making cleaning a simple detergent and water job." Should you ever want to paint, however, for a change of color perhaps the vinyl takes paint with excellent results.

Other features? "Rigid vinyl resists flaking, rotting, peeling, blistering, corrosion, warping, pitting and staining; is virtually unaffected by common household cleaners and solvents and most industrial chemicals and fumes."

"RIGID VINYL also resists scratching, abrasion, denting and the attacks of termites and fungi," Fowles said. "And, since its thermal conductivity is extremely low, its use adds an extra layer of insulation against temperature extremes.

There is a safety factor, since rigid vinyl won't support combustion. It will burn only when in contact with a flame from another source and will stop burning when that source is removed.

What about installation in remodeling projects?

Fowles says an extremely competent do-it-yourselfer can handle installation but, to assure a professional job, it is best to have siding and gutter systems installed by experienced contractors.

THE CRITICAL point is the need to allow for expansion and contraction of the vinyl panels under temperature variations. It is essential that nails not be driven in too tightly.

What besides siding, gutters and shutters are available in the rigid vinyls? Accessories such as vinyl-clad wood windows, window components, panning, ducts, flashings, awnings, corner posts, soffit, weatherstripping, and trim and molding and channels for sliding doors.

Tramway Riders on Increase

The largest number of passengers on one day since Nov. 11, 1966, rode the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway on Sunday, Feb. 22.

Tramway General Manager O. L. McKenney said the recent Sunday count was 2,983 for the day. The 1966 big day showed 3,088 passengers rode the world's longest single-span Tramway.

"Our big day on this last Feb. 22, actually beat the 1966 figure on a passenger carried-per-hour basis," McKenney pointed out.

He said the 1966 record day was accomplished from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., 14 hours, while the Feb. 22, 1970 big day was recorded from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., only 8 and one-half hours.

The near-capacity crowds riding the Tramway on Saturdays and Sundays brought a suggestion from McKenney that people living in areas near the Tramway would do well to bring their visitors to the Tram on weekdays.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Few Are Irredeemable, Even at Handling Money

By DON CAMPBELL

While Father Flanagan's famous generosity that "there's no such thing as a bad boy," may fall under suspicion in the face of some cynical examples to the contrary, on occasion, there are some pretty valid reasons for believing that few individuals are completely irredeemable.

The same thing is generally true of the way people handle money — some seem to have an inherent "feel" for the act, many wander astray from time to time, but relatively few are completely impossible, all of the time, in the way they manage their finances.

MR. CAMPBELL: Some five years ago I had to file bankruptcy, and that made my credit bad.

But, since then, I have new credit established here and there, and what credit I have is good. Unfortunately, the old bankruptcy is still very much on the books. I have tried to get a second mortgage on my home, and have found this out the hard way. I only owe $9,000 on the home, and it is valued at $14,500.

My problem now is that I need $3,500 to do some improvements on the home, but every time I apply for a second mortgage on it, I am turned down because of my past credit rating. What does a person do for a record change? — MR. R.T.

ANSWER: Obviously, someone hasn't got the word that you have turned over a new leaf. I have no way of knowing, of course, just how flamboyantly bad your credit record was which culminated in the bankruptcy five years ago, but, assuming that you haven't strayed from the straight and narrow too much in the interval, it would seem to me that, by now, you should have a better reputation than you do.

I would suggest that you go immediately to the local office of your credit association — the clearing-house for all credit references in your community — and sit down with a member of the bureau's staff for a heart-to-heart discussion of your situation.

Credit associations, which have come under their share of fire of public criticism recently, are more than cooperative in this respect.

These organizations really have no ax to grind in continuing to label your credit as shaky and are anxious to sit down with anyone who thinks that he is getting a raw deal and talk it over.

It would almost appear, in this case, that the bureau's files aren't up-to-date in charting your return to solvency. I feel confident that it would take only a few minutes during such an interview to establish where the trouble lies. It certainly beats getting turned down constantly for credit without knowing the reasons for it.

MR. CAMPBELL: I am a reader of your column and, some time ago, I read where one man had income property and U.S. Treasury bills at 6.35 per cent, and was living beautifully.

Since then I have been inquiring where I can buy these bills, or get more information about them. The bankers won't give out any information because they seem to think it will hurt their business.

I have $42,000 in savings now in the bank and paying 5 per cent, compounded, and sent to me quarterly. I also have five small, furnished rentals which gross $110 per week in rent. What per cent should I figure for depreciation, upkeep, taxes, insurance, etc. on my rental property in order to make a substantial profit?

I have been thinking of selling my real estate, since rentals are a lot of work and headaches. When is the best time to sell? Spring or fall? If I sell my rental property and invest all of my money in U.S. Treasury bills paying 6.35 per cent, I think I could live beautifully, too. I will be looking forward to your answer. — Mr. C.V.G.

ANSWER: Bankers, indeed, seem a bit reticent on the subject of U.S. Treasury bills. If nothing else, the situation points up quite graphically why interest rates, generally, are probing the stratosphere — when the U.S. government itself has to pay such high interest (and, incidentally, the rate on U.S. Treasury bills has, in the meantime, gone up to about 7.5 per cent) then riskier securities are, naturally, going to have to yield even more.

If your local banker is sticky about giving you information on these government securities, then I suggest that you go to one of your stockbrokers and let him handle the transaction for you.

We don't want to do the bankers any disservice, of course, but the facts of life are that there are many places where your savings could be garnering a better yield than the 5 per cent that your bank is currently paying.

Admittedly, too, the landlord role has a tendency to get pretty tiresome after awhile, and this is especially the case when investment dollars can be doing almost as well — and with a whole lot less sweat — in fixed-income equities.

As far as knowing when "the best time to sell" is, the question is pretty much up for grabs; it depends, almost entirely, on the local situation and this is where your friends in the real estate business can be of invaluable service to you.

In the meantime, while your depreciation, upkeep, taxes, insurance, and so forth will vary widely, you'll probably find that routine maintenance and operational costs will take somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent of your gross rentals, with the highly variable taxes, insurance and what-have-you eating up enough of the balance to give you a net somewhere in the neighborhood of 10 and 15 per cent a year.

It's a good return, but, as the stockbrokers say, "every man has to kill his own snakes" in determining when the work ceases to justify the differential between rental income and other, less, strenuous, forms of investment.

MR. CAMPBELL: I hope you can help me out in the fight I am having with my real estate broker.

I have had my house listed with him for about a month, but got a firm proposition on the house about a week ago from a newcomer to town who was referred to me by a man who works in my office, an old friend of the man who wants to buy my house.

If the deal goes through — and it looks as if it will — I say that I don't owe the broker a commission because he had nothing to do with the sale. He says I owe him, anyway. Who's right? — MR. F.F.

ANSWER: I don't know, but there's something going on here that has a distinct aroma to it.

What your friend, and the would-be buyer, say may be perfectly true, but your ground is a bit shaky — and especially so if you lowered the asking price as a compromise on the commission that you now feel you won't have to pay.

What you should have done, of course (good old hindsight!), is to have called the broker immediately to see if the would-be buyer had been in contact with him. Now, however, your best bet is to consult a lawyer to see how your state law regards such conflicts — and the variance from state to state fluctuates pretty wildly.

MR. CAMPBELL: I had my house sold for me recently and it wasn't until the deal was closed that I realized that my broker had charged me an 8 per cent sales commission.

When I argued with him on this, he pretended to be very hurt and insisted that we had agreed on this figure in the listing agreement.

I guess I did sign this without noticing the specific percentage, but I didn't think it made any difference because I am positive that the legal limit is 6 per cent. The only trouble is that I can't find any reference for this figure. Can you help me? — MR. L.T.

ANSWER: Sorry . . . I wouldn't know where to begin looking. While 6 per cent, because of competitive reasons, may be the common commission charged in your area, the fact of the matter is that the maximum rate permissible is that agreed upon by the agent and the principal.

Next time I suggest that you read the listing agreement with a bit more care.

QUESTION: We have very low water pressure in our bathroom, which is quite remote from the water heater. What is wrong?

ANSWER: Without a detailed examination, it is difficult to say. The most likely trouble spot is in the hot water pipes. These tend to accumulate mineral deposits more quickly than cold water pipes. In this case, replacement of the pipes may be necessary.

(Campbell welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately, he is unable to enter into personal correspondence, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible in his column.)

PORTS O'PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

The Oceanic Steamship Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Matson Navigation Co., has placed a $50.5 million order for two new container ships with Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The ships, each capable of carrying 856 containers, will be built in Bethlehem's Sparrows Point, Md., shipyard.

The 719-foot container carriers will be powered by 32,000-horsepower geared steam turbines capable of driving the ships at 23 knots.

The vessels will be used in Matson Pacific Far East trade between the Port of Los Angeles and the Orient.

Each vessel can carry 638 containers of 24-foot length and 318 of the 40-footers, with 282 of them refrigerated.

The vessels are similar to two other ships ordered from Bethlehem by Matson. The SS Hawaiian Enterprise sailed recently from the Port of Los Angeles on her maiden voyage to Hawaii.

The second ship, the SS Hawaiian Progress is nearing completion at the shipbuilding company's Maryland yard.

The ships are being built under construction subsidy rate of 46.5 per cent, the difference in cost between construction costs in U.S. yards and West German shipyards.

When Matson called for bids, Bethlehem, the only bidder submitted a bid of $56.4 million to build the two. Negotiations between Matson and Bethlehem resulted in modifications to the design with a resulting cost reduction of $5.9 million for both ships.

IN-PORT-ANT PEOPLE: Robert H. Autenrieth, a sales executive with Sunkist Growers, Inc., is the chairman of the 1970 World Trade Week Committee.

Autenrieth, who is in charge of exports for Sunkist which move through the port of Long Beach, is a past director of the Foreign Trade Association and is a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce World Trade Executive Committee.

IN-PORT-ANT EVENTS: Three stevedoring companies were cited for maintaining low accident rates during the recent Southern California Accident Prevention Awards Dinner held at the Ports o' Call Restaurant in the Port of Los Angeles.

Commended were the Metropolitan Stevedore Company, the Crescent Wharf and Warehouse Company (San Diego) and Crescent City Marine Ways and Drydock Co., Inc.

Clifford McClain, 153 W. Zane St., Long Beach, was commended for his actions in helping save the life of a fellow worker whose heart stopped after receiving an electrical shock.

L.A. Home Show Is Scheduled

A new type of exposition, aimed at helping the home owner, will make its debut next June in Los Angeles.

The show, to be known as "The Southern California New Home, Remodeling and Decorator's Show," will be presented June 5 through June 14 at the Great Western Exhibit Center, according to F. H. Creger, producer of International Shows, Inc., Long Beach.

CREGER said: "The show will be the first of its kind in the U.S. and the type of show that homemakers expect to see. It will be an educational show that will definitely aid the thousands of newcomers to Southern California in site and home purchasing or construction, selection of home furnishing, decorating, landscaping, etc."

"The exposition will be distinctive in its complete and exclusive representation of the building industry rather than a collection of 'pitch' items and novelties."

Participating in the show will be leading building and landscape architects, interior decorators, painting, electrical, plumbing, roofing, and masonry contractors, home builders and land developers.

Escrow Assn. to Hear Krueger

The Long Beach Escrow Association members will meet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Elks Club to hear Jack Krueger, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors speak.

His topic: "Come Fly With Us in the Soaring 70s." The meeting has been tabbed "Brokers Night" and members will have brokers as guests.

LEADERSHIP Homes has had by far its best year in 1969, and from the start we've had in 1970, it looks as if we're off to another record year," stated Fred Sattes, vice president.

"We're very proud of Phil Yasskin and all of our sales force, and our entire organization. It takes quite a team effort to sell 1,250 homes in one year. This year we're projecting sales at 2,100 homes."

LEADERSHIP Homes is the single-family housing producer for Macco Corporation, real estate development subsidiary of Great Southwest Corporation.

The 13 sales representatives honored at the NAIIB convention were Ed Bivens (Porter Ridge-Northridge), Bob Buckley (The Missions-Laguna Hills), Vern Clark (Scripps Miramar Ranch-San Diego), Nolan Crutchfield (Sandpointe-Santa Ana), Doug Hammond (Porter Ridge), Alan Landsman (Sandpointe), Al McKool (Casa Dominguez-Carson), Bud Mills (The Missions), Bill Nuckols (Scripps Miramar Ranch), Jay Reagan (Glenbrook Hills-Brea), Aaron Sultan (Casa Dominguez), George Usry (The Missions), Bailey Warren (Scripps Miramar Ranch).

new 32-page illustrated booklet, "Keep It Clean."

Color photographs show vividly the problems faced and how they are being solved. Simplified diagrams explain how various pollution abatement devices operate to control contamination.

The booklet points out how Bethlehem has been working for decades to eliminate or control environmental contamination throughout its plants, mines, quarries and shipyards.

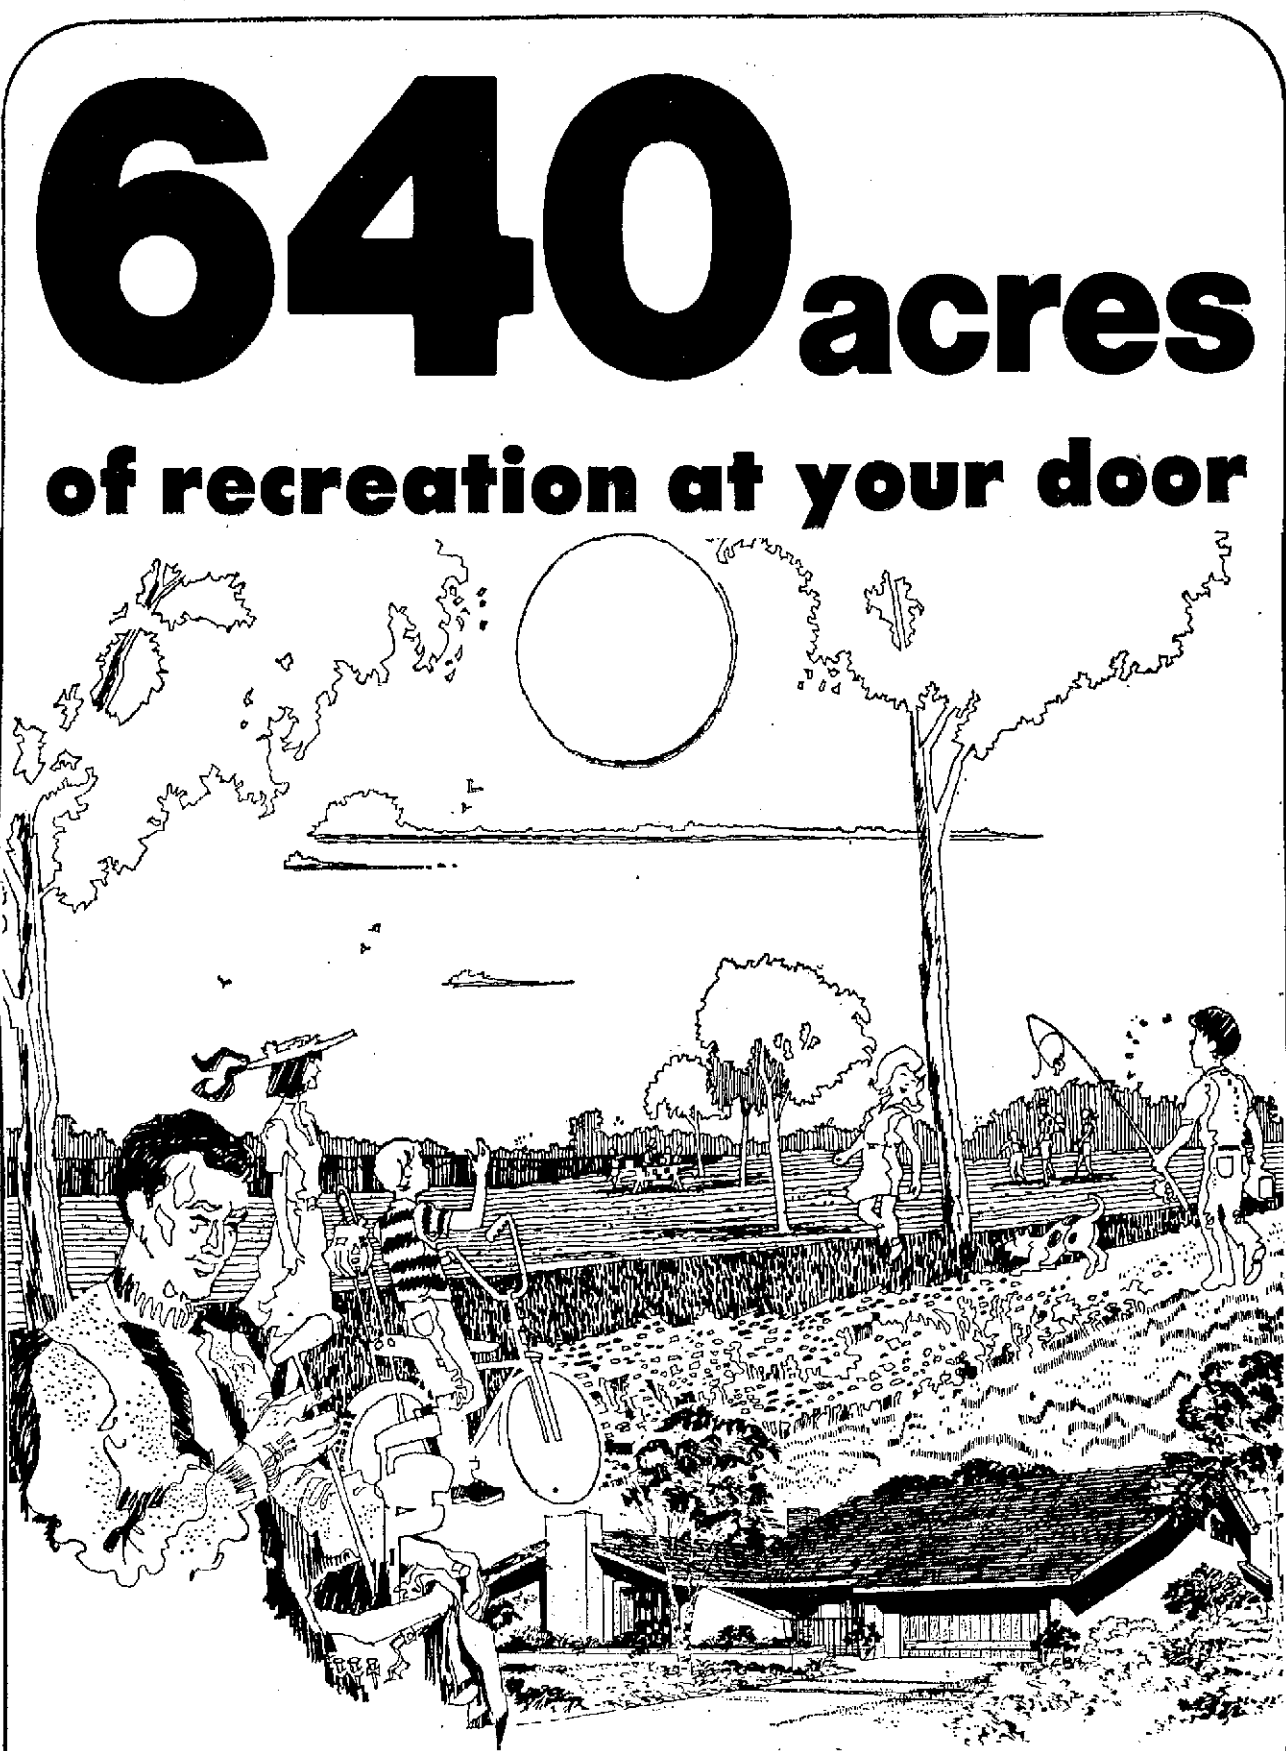

A special section of the booklet outlines the part research has played through the years in advancing Bethlehem's environmental quality control activities.

Also described are the successful planting programs employed by Bethlehem to reclaim wasted areas and restore the natural ecological balance at its mines and quarries.

For a free copy of the new booklet, write to Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Room 1026, Bethlehem, PA 18016.
